TRAINMEN UNHURT IN BLUFFS PILE-UP EARLY SATURDAY

A train wreck at 3 o'clock Saturday morning caused a power failure which left the village of Bluffs in darkness and four box-cars stacked like cord wood across State Route 100 in the heart of the business district.

The accident happened during switching operations in the Wabash Railroad yards at Bluffs. Traffic had to be routed around the crossing more than eight hours while salvage crews worked to free the entanglement of twisted steel.

Albert Leyton, 851 East Cantrell, Decatur, engineer, was backing into a freight yard siding with a long string of cars. Leyton apparently did not receive or failed to see the stop signal, according to railroad officials, and pushed four box-cars into a de-rail device. The cars moved a concrete signal shed, broke a utility pole, scattered the four cars over the highway and blocked the main track of the Wabash line.

Two guests in a hotel about 50 feet from the impact area slept through the confusion without being awakened. Other residents as far as two blocks away were routed from their sleep by the noise of the impact.

Orville Baptist, 2005 East Lawrence, Springfield, conductor, was in the caboose on the rear section of the train on the outskirts of Bluffs, waiting for the train to spot several cars.

Glenn B. Williams, telegraph operator on duty at the Bluffs depot, about 250 yards down the track, said he saw sparks fly from the impact area, then the town was blacked-out. "I wasn't sure just what happened, but ran down to investigate." Williams then notified Decatur (Wabash headquarters) of the accident and called for State police.

The trainmen were not injured in the crash and no autos were near the crossing at the time.

Freesen Brothers Construction Company supplied a bulldozer to clear the main line so the next train could pass the wreckage.

A special salvage crew and "big hook' were dispatched from Decatur to clear the area. An emergency line-crew from Central Illinois Power Service Company arrived within thirty minutes, repaired damage and restored power in less than two hours.

Several members of the Bluffs fire department were watching one of the box-cars which apparently was loaded with a quantity of inflamable liquid.

The cars damaged were used as offices and bunk houses for construction crews. Everyone had returned to their homes for the weekend.

Senate Passes Foreign Aid Bill

Delays Civil Rights Battle

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate patched together a $3,281,813,000 foreign aid bill Saturday night and headed into an adjournment — delaying civil rights battle.

A motion by Sen. Carl Hayden (D-Ariz) to suspend the rules so that a rider would be attached to the bill extending the life of the Civil Rights Commission for two years was marked as the prelude to a storm of criticism of the commission from Southern Democrats.

The House had met briefly in the wan hope that this might be getaway day of a session which has lasted more than eight months. It sent to the White House a compromise bill permitting an increase in interest rates on government savings bonds.

Speaker Sam Rayburn (D-Tex) got House passage of a resolution to adjourn Monday. But Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas was not at all sure the Senate could dispose of the civil rights matter by then.

Since neither house can adjourn for the session without consent of

Nehru Accused Of Appeasement

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Opposition members of Parliament accused Prime Minister Nehru Saturday of appeasement and demanded he use force to dislodge Chinese Communist troops from Indian territory.

After five hours of angry debate in which members of non-Communist opposition parties almost unanimously assailed the manner Nehru used to handle the border disputes, some Parliament members walked out in disgust. None of the members seemed happy with the situation, although the House approved the government's policy by a voice vote. Parliament then adjourned until Nov. 17.

Nehru countered with a charge that the opposition was resorting to brave gestures and rejected out of hand the proposal to use force.

The angry exchanges took place as Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev was attempting to get Red China and India to settle their border dispute, which threatens to dampen his forthcoming visit to the United States.

Nehru also turned down proposals that New Delhi withdraw earlier offers to mediate minor troubles along the India-Tibetan frontier. He declared he would give up sections of the MacMahon line which divides northeast India from Tibet "if I find it wrongly there."

He termed the MacMahon line vague in some places and said it was only right that negotiations should be offered in such places. Nevertheless, he made it clear he is not willing to surrender to Red China's claims to large sections of land along India's border with Tibet.

Nehru said it was not correct that there had been any large scale incursions into Indian territory by Chinese troops. He said Chinese units were now south of the MacMahon line at only one or two isolated points. It is equally incorrect, he said, to say Red Chinese armies were massed along the Indian frontier.

MOTHER AND SIX CHILDREN DIE: Seven members of the James Zimmerman family were wiped out as the car in which they were driving to school struck a freight train at a railroad crossing on highway 14 at Waseca, Minn. The vehicle apparently came down the highway and started across the crossing when it struck the train. Witnesses say the signal lights were operating at the time. The children were killed outright (shown in car and on ground) and the mother died in hospital 3 hours later. (NEA Telephoto)

Steel Strike Pay Roll Losses Mount, 645,000 Idled

WASHINGTON (AP) — Payroll losses due to the steel strike were reported by the government Saturday to have mounted to 550 million dollars.

In his third semimonthly survey of the effects of the strike which began July 15, Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell placed the number of workers idled by the dispute at 645,000 and said:

"The latest report for the last half of August pointed to heavy employment losses if the strike continues into next month, especially in metal-using industries and in trade and service activities."

Mitchell, who has been acting as President Eisenhower's fact finder in the steel situation, made no mention in his report of union-management negotiations now under way in New York, nor did he make any attempt to forecast settlement prospects.

Instead the report presented a detailed survey of conditions in 31 major steel-producing and steel-consuming areas for the six-week period from July 15-Aug. 31. These areas were described as representing more than four-fifths of the steel industry's total work force, and about half of the nation's employment in major steel-using industries.

The report noted an increase in relief and welfare applications in a number of key areas, particularly in Gary, Ind., and Canton, Cleveland, and Youngstown, Ohio. It said the Pittsburgh area received nearly 7,000 relief applications from strikers through the end of August.

Mitchell said companies are beginning to delay expansion of jobs they had planned for before the strike began because of expected steel shortages. Others are delaying the recall of workers and not replacing those leaving, he said.

Mitchell noted that few strikers and laid-off workers have been able to find other jobs. He said those who did were mostly filling stopgap jobs in such activities as seasonal farm and food-processing industries.

The report included these area surveys through Aug. 31:

Chicago: some 1,200 workers were laid off by Chicago area employers as a result of secondary effects of the steel strike during the last 15 days of August, bringing the over-all total since the strike started to 14,800. However, total unemployment increased only by about 5,000 as hiring in industries not affected by the strike took up some of the slack.

More than two-thirds of the strike-related layoffs in the last half of August were concentrated in manufacturing: earlier cutbacks had been centered in non-factory industries — principally railroads and construction.

Local business declined noticeably in the last two weeks of August, but the drop seemed to be attributable mostly to a recent hot spell. Almost all of the larger stores in the Gary, Ind. sector are inviting people to use their charge accounts with no payments necessary until after the strike ends. The rise in local relief applications has been relatively slight considering the large number of workers directly involved in the strike (70,000).

St. Louis, Mo: This area continued to show relatively limited strike-related manpower effects of the steel dispute. Some 200 secondary layoffs were reported between Aug. 16 and Aug. 31, raising the total thus far affected by the strike to around 280. More than half of the losses since mid-August were centered in railroads. Employers reportedly feel that there will be no sharp cutbacks until the end of September if the strike continues. However, firms with workers on layoff status when strike began have been slow to make recalls, and some firms have temporarily shelved their expansion plans.

Girl, 19, Wins Parents' Consent For Operation

KANSAS CITY, Kan. (AP) — Nineteen-year-old Charlene Butts has won her parents' consent for a tumor operation, a hospital executive said Saturday.

Physicians said she would lose her eyesight and possibly her life if a tumor on the pituitary gland at the base of her brain was not removed. Her father, Charles Butts of Oswego, Kan., objected, saying she did not need an operation.

Dr. Vernon Wilson, acting dean of the University of Kansas Medical Center, said Mr. and Mrs. Butts finally gave their oral consent. The parents are expected at the center Monday to give their permission in writing. The operation is set for Tuesday.

Miss Butts, claiming she has already lost about 40 per cent of her sight, petitioned a court to give her the rights of majority so that she could have the operation without her parents' agreement.

Later she filed a suit asking that the court appoint a guardian for her to accomplish the same purpose.

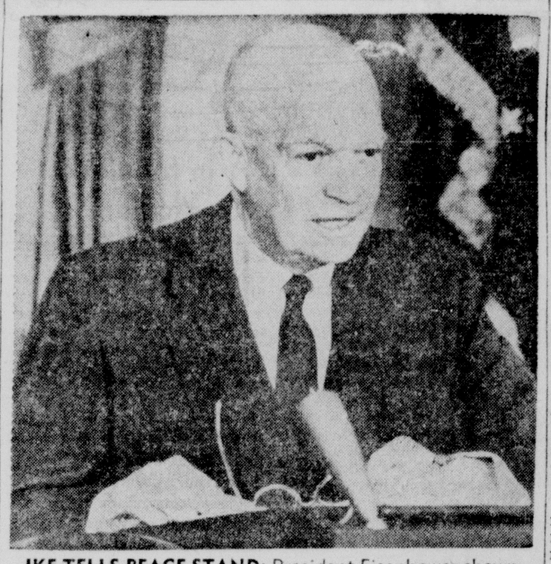
Soviets Aim 860-Pound Space Capsule At Moon



IKE TELLS PEACE STAND: President Eisenhower shown speaking to the nation over radio and television from Washington. The President told America he hopes his meeting with Soviet Premier Khrushchev next week might lead to "practical progress' toward easing world tension, but he warned of over-optimism that this would be the result of the meetings. Timed To Coincide With Nikita's Visit

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet scientists blasted another rocket toward the moon Saturday. They said they expect it to land there and plant the hammer and sickle among the moon's craters shortly before Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev lands in the United States.

The ball-shaped, 860-pound space capsule, loaded with scientific instruments, was reported right on course and beeping back information in a steady stream.

A consultant at the Moscow planetarium said that with the rocket's present course, "it must hit the moon." A scientific spokesman for the planetarium added: "As I read the official announcement the rocket is expected to hit the moon at five minutes after midnight Monday morning" that would be 4:05 p.m. Eastern Standard Time Sunday.

This language appeared to fix more definitely the idea that the rocket is heading straight for the moon and not intended to go around it.

Even if the rocket does not make a direct hit and goes into a lunar orbit, it would be the first man-made object to do so. If it whizzes by the moon's gravitational field, it will join another Soviet rocket — Mechta — and America's Pioneer IV now orbiting around the sun.

Should Khrushchev arrive in the United States as leader of the first country to put a standard on the moon it seemed here he would be surrounded with spectacular new prestige.

The final stage of the rocket carried an inscription saying "September 1959," to mark the date. Scientists here expressed no doubt the rocket would reach its goal.

Aleksandr Topchiyev, vice president of the Soviet Academy of Sciences, said it was following the scheduled trajectory. Moscow radio reported all scientific and telemetric and radio transmission instruments functioning normally.

Charge Policeman Sold Heroin To Narcotics Agent

CHICAGO (AP) — A suburban policeman was charged Saturday with selling heroin to an undercover narcotics agent.

Authorities said Ysmael Luna Jr., 26, a volunteer policeman from the southwest suburb of Palos Hills, and four other men were seized Friday, and charged with peddling narcotics.

Frank Ferlic, assistant state's attorney, said Luna sold $150 worth of heroin to a U.S. narcotics agent at a West Side rendezvous Friday while wearing his uniform.

The others, rounded up after Luna was questioned by police, identified themselves as Michael Machroli, 18, Salvador Milazzo, John Picatagi, 26, and Vincent Deora, 23.

Chief G. Delbert Pearce of Palos Hills said Luna was accepted on the force last April despite a record of minor arrests because "he had no convictions and was very open about the arrests."

Ike, Nikita To Start Momentous Meeting At Cross-Purposes

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower and Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev will begin their momentous talks here Tuesday at cross-purposes. They seem certain to wind up the same way.

Beyond speaking against war and for peace they find themselves in disagreement on almost every aspect of world affairs. Even when they talk about peace they evidently do not mean the same thing.

Yet in some quarters of this government and in many other world capitals there is a buoyant hope that somehow the exchange of visits between the leaders of the great antagonistic power blocs will prove to be a happy turning point in history.

If the meetings in Washington and later in Moscow are to lead eventually to any such result they will have to produce changes in U. S. and Soviet foreign policies which are not now indicated. On the contrary, every piece of known information on the intentions of Eisenhower and Khrushchev shows that neither will give way on any issue of importance.

What they may achieve in general terms, however, may be substantially more than what they can do with the half a dozen tough specific issues due to dominate their conversations.

'TEACHERS OF TOMORROW'

Jacksonville schools have for decades served as a training ground for teachers of tomorrow. With the opening of local schools two weeks ago, another large crop of student teachers began working with elementary and secondary school children.

Typical of these new teachers is Mrs. Sheryl Savage Sellars, center, 128 W. Vandalia, who is assisting JHS junior Eldora Sturgeon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Sturgeon, 508 Pine. With them is Mrs. Mildred Hamilton Silva, who teaches this particular typing class.

Mrs. Sellars, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Savage, 524 Rosedale, will be a senior at MacMurray College when classes begin Sept. 24. A JHS graduate herself, she is majoring in Business Education at MacMurray, with an eye towards teaching commerical subjects after graduation. Her mother, Mrs. Elma Savage, teaches Latin and English at JHS.

Presently, Sheryl is simply observing actual teaching done by Mrs. Silva, but soon she will be engaged in the teaching process herself as she completes 180 hours of practice teaching required by MacMurray. She will teach classes in advanced shorthand and transcription.

When she completes her 180 hours, she will receive five hours' college credit required by state law for a State Teachers Certificate. These hours are part of 16 college hours of education courses required by MacMurray, which according to Education Department Chairman Dr. Victor Sheppard, this year will have 80 students preparing to enter the teaching profession.

Commander Tells Of Air National Guard

In event of national emergency, 50% of the personnel of the 170th Tactical Fighter Squadron, Illinois Air Guard, would reach its base within two hours, Capt. Harold G. Holesinger, commander, told Jacksonville Rotarians at their weekly dinner meeting. The other 50% would be on duty within another hour, according to tests which have been made.

Accompanied by Capt. Ernest (Perk) Chumley of this city, Capt. Holesinger gave the clubmen and their guests a graphic picture of the powerful squadron based at Springfield, which in time of emergency works in conjunction with ground forces of the Illinois National Guard.

Capt. Holesinger said the squadron has two main objectives—supplying and working with ground forces, and intercepting enemy aircraft. The jet planes based at Springfield, Peoria, and O'Hare Field at Chicago are equipped for delivering nuclear bombs and rockets on enemy targets.

The 170th Tactical Fighter Squadron, which has a roster of about 500 men, is housed in six large buildings at Capital Airport north of Springfield on the Walnut street road, these having been erected by the federal government. The buildings consist of administrative headquarters, hangars, motor pool, shops, and other facilities.

The Fighter Squadron goes on field training trips in northern states each year. A number of Jacksonville men have seen the Squadron in action on visitors' day at Michigan and Wisconsin air bases.

Capt. Holesinger said one of the most frequent questions he is asked relates to sonic booms which often cause heavy concussion on the ground. The Fighter Squadron is limited to an area over Lake Michigan where they may cause these booms, he said, and the loud reports heard in this section are caused by other types of jet craft.

The speaker compared the sonic booms, caused when jet planes break the sound barrier, with ripples in a pond when a stone is tossed in. The sound waves spread out much the same as waves in a pond, until they hit the earth.

"Regardless of the annoyance they cause, the sonic booms are here to stay, and we will have to tolerate them in the interest of national defense," Capt. Holesinger said.

President Ray Miller presided at the Rotary session and Byron Holkenbrink served as chairman of the day.

WINDOW WONDERLAND

Three basic ingredients go into today's recipe for a well-planned home—large, expansive windows to give an outdoor-indoor look; functional furniture, and room arrangements that make the most of every inch of available space, take full advantage of all the architectural assets and camouflage faulty features.

We are indebted to the Modernists for emphasis on large windows and walls of glass, but this by no means limits their use in homes of other styles. In fact, today's clever homeplanner borrows the best of Modern, Traditional and Provincial and combines them to create a livable, comfortable, attractive home.

Sketched above is a room with large window walls that look out on a scene of enchantment. Provincial furniture was chosen for this room to tie in with the knotty pine surfaces of dado and window frames. Snug wall-to-wall carpeting makes for easy upkeep.

Note how the fabric of the gay-colored valance has been pasted on the area above the windows to give a novel, colorful effect. (Fabric can be easily pasted to walls with vegetable glue.) Basic colors are blue and yellow which combine beautifully with the natural wood tones.

We offer you a varied selection of fine furnishings — attractive blendable pieces that will live in perfect harmony with what you already have in your home. Do come in and browse through our showrooms and see the many decorator-type pieces that we've carefully selected with You in mind. Soon now!

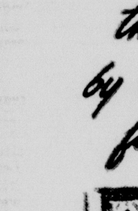
BIG CHOMPER—The largest earth-moving machine ever built in America, the Kolbe Wheel Excavator, is shown in operation in southern Ohio. Owned by Bucyrus-Erie Co., it's being used to strip mine coal, but can do other gargantuan earth-moving jobs. The monster is 46 feet wide, 150 feet high and weighs 2,100 tons. It gets its name from a 27-foot-wide wheel, extreme left, driving 2½-cubic-yard digging buckets. Excavated material is carried by a belt to be dumped, right, 420 feet away.

As I See It

by E. W. BROWN



A little story we heard about a football practice session impressed us as worth repeating. It seems that on a somewhat complicated new play the boys were as confused as a stranger at a crossroads. They just didn't understand their assignments. Then the coach said, "Okay, fellows, let's walk through it." So they did . . . each man learning in slow motion what he had to do. Then the coach gave orders to run the play at full speed. This time everything went smooth as peach fuzz.

This anecdote got us to thinking what a great system this would be for all of us whenever we got all tensed up about some new problems, and hardly know how or which way to carry the ball. Instead of rushing wildly ahead, if we'd just take time to "walk through" the problem a few times we'd probably soon find that we could handle it with a minimum amount of misery.

A national magazine carried an article with the title, "Emotional Upsets Are Good For You." Maybe so . . . but they're tough on everyone around you. What's good for one isn't always good for another. But a genuine bargain in a new car is good for everyone. Right now is the time and E. W. Brown's is the place. This is your opportunity to buy a brand new 1959 Plymouth at a big, big saving, for we are now making room for the new 1960 models. Top value for your trade-in, too. E. W. Brown, 406 South Main. THEY FISH FOR SCIENCE

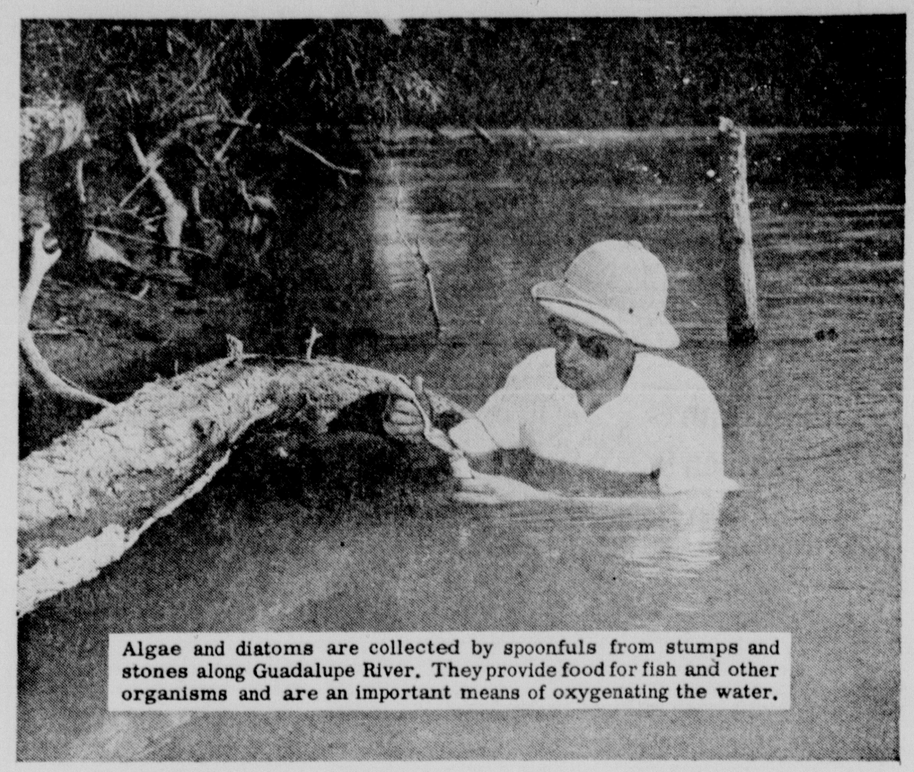
Scientists cast a fine mesh net to collect fish and small organisms in pollution control study conducted on the Guadalupe River in Texas.



Algae and diatoms are collected by spoonfuls from stumps and stones along Guadalupe River. They provide food for fish and other organisms and are an important means of oxygenating the water.

Fishermen with gear that Izaak Walton would never recognize appear from time to time on streams throughout the country.

They're scientists who are using an array of tweezers, test tubes, microscopes, scrapers, diatometers, chemicals and butterfly nets to make biological studies of rivers on which industrial plants are located.

The studies are designed to insure that proper protective measures are being taken to dispose of the plants' trade waste without destroying the delicate natural balance of the plant and animal life of the river. They also work to prevent pollution from the outset in new plant construction.

Pictured here are the scientists from the Academy of Natural Sciences of Philadelphia who are carrying out this anti-pollution program for the Du Pont plants across the country.

The team spends about two weeks at the site collecting data and samples of fish, clams, oysters, mussels, snails, bugs, insects, plants and microscopic organisms that dwell in and along the river. The "catch" is then shipped to the academy's Philadelphia laboratories for evaluation. Analyzed and correlated, it establishes a permanent yardstick and a guide for future operations of the plant.

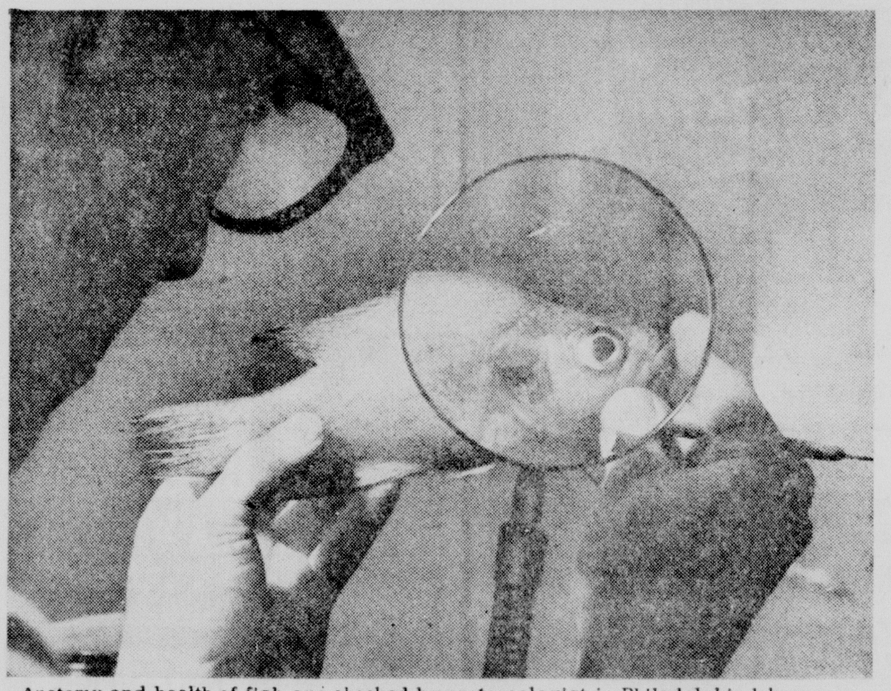
Hoop net handled here by Gordon Chaplin, field assistant, and Selwyn Roback, is used for obtaining various forms of aquatic life for laboratory tests.

Mud is collected in dredge, then washed in trays so scientists can study worms and snails living in the bed of the stream. They are important in showing effects of pollution.

Scientists use set of graduated screens to catch worms, clams, insects and other marine species brought up from waters of Wateree River at Camden, S. C.

Water is collected with use of big brass cylinder. It's then analyzed for its oxygen content.

Some of laboratory work is done at site of survey. Chemist-bacteriologist Nancy Hess tests water samples taken from Wateree River.



Anatomy and health of fish are checked by protozoologist in Philadelphia laboratory. Fish, while important, represent only about one-tenth of the entire field study.

Chicago Livestock Market Report

CHICAGO (AP) — A sharp setback in butcher hog prices on Friday wiped out almost all the gains earlier in the week and the market closed mostly steady to 25 cents higher in spots.

Friday's supply, however, was the largest for that day of the week since June and the total for the four days was the largest for any comparable period in several weeks.

Buyers commented frequently that offerings were within a limited weight range and that every few head over 260 lbs were on sale. As a consequence, prices narrowed somewhat.

The cattle supply for the holiday week was about 10 per cent smaller than a week ago and included fully 70 per cent slaughter steers. Most of the week's offerings were on sale the first two days but prices opened the week steady to 25 cents higher and closed with the advance lost.

In the sheep market, spring slaughter lambs and ewes were steady on a good local demand for a supply 15 per cent smaller than last week.

CHICAGO (AP) — (USDA) — Here is a summary of the hog, cattle and sheep markets for the week with estimated receipts for today.

Hogs 100; for the week: at the close a few select lots of sorts No 1 and mixed No 1 and 2 210-220 lb butchers brought 14.50. Other No 1 and No 2 and 3 240-280 lbs also 14.00-14.25. New York Stock Market

By ED MORSE
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market took its worst weekly loss in nearly two years this week as it continued to retreat under the impact of higher interest rates, the prolonged steel strike and international uncertainties.

It was the second of two sharp weekly setbacks and it put the average back to its lowest level since June 16, thus erasing all of the summer rally.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks fell $4.60 to $222.70—a drop equal to that of the week ended Dec. 21, 1957, and last exceeded only by the plunge of $6.20 in the week ended Oct. 12, 1957. That was the week the market shuddered under the news that the Russians had launched a Sputnik.

The Dow Jones industrial average fell 14.82 to 637.36.

The rise in the Federal Reserve discount rate to 4 per cent from 3½ per cent came after the market closed on Thursday but the fear of it had overhung the market since Sept. 1.

The two-month steel strike seemed no nearer solution despite a demand for a settlement from President Eisenhower. Although the effects of the strike were still not profound, except for the railroads, there was growing concern over the future.

The possible results of the Khrushchev - Eisenhower meetings and the bringing of the Laos conflict to the attention of the United Nations provided more cause for hesitation.

In the four-day trading week, shortened by the Labor Day holiday, stocks fell sharply the first three days and ended the week with a rally which was regarded as largely technical.

Of 1,396 issues traded, 1,017 declined, 248 advanced and 131 were unchanged.

Government bonds sank to new historic lows in some cases, and corporates also fell.

GRAIN CONTRACTS END WEEK LOWER

By GIL MAYO
AP Business News Writer

CHICAGO (AP)—Rallies were brief and few in the grain futures market this week and all contracts on the Board of Trade trended lower.

Net setbacks generally were within the one to two cent range and were fairly well distributed throughout the list.

Stiffest pressure was on the still unharvested corn and soybean contracts as daily reports indicated improved conditions and rapid development of the crops, both maturing earlier than usual and showing promise of yields at least equal to average.

The government's September report on Thursday, however, held some prospects of bolstering soybean prices, and it did for a short time on Friday.

Brokers called the estimated yield of 532½ million bushels at least mildly bullish since the figure was only about a million bushels above the August estimate when the outlook probably was the poorest of the summer.

Dealers bid soybeans prices up a cent or more a bushel at Friday's opening. But prices at the close had slipped about two cents from their highs of the day.

Corn, the only grain which showed any significant bearish effect from the report, went into a decline and all the new crop contracts again slumped to new low prices for the season for the third time in the week.

Oats weakened with corn while wheat eased mainly because of slow commercial demand.

At the end of the week, wheat was ¼ cent a bushel higher to 1⅝ lower, September $1.91; corn 1½-1⅞ lower, September $1.16⅝-¾; oats ⅜-2¾ lower, September new type contract 66¼-⅛; rye unchanged to 1½ cents lower, soybeans ¾-2⅜ lower, September $2.07¾.

Pike Man Hurt As Car Fails To Make Curve

PITTSFIELD—Milo Barton, 35-year-old local resident, is a patient at Pike County Hospital in Louisiana, Mo., as a result of injuries suffered late Thursday night when the car in which he was riding went off the road. Barton is suffering from head and chest injuries and is in fair condition. He will be brought to the Illini Hospital in this city when he is able to be moved.

Reports say that the Barton car failed to negotiate a curve in the highway near Bowling Green, Mo., Thursday evening while returning from a trip to St. Louis. The auto was extensively damaged.

RUSSIANS AIM 860-POUND SPACE CAPSULE AT MOON

Throughout the Soviet Union, millions listened to the radio broadcasting evenly spaced signals from the rocket as it soared through space. Across Red Square from the Kremlin, the aisles of the GUM department store were jammed as the tone came over loudspeakers.

Radio Moscow reported Saturday night the Soviet scientists photographed a sodium cloud released from the rocket. It said the cloud was released right on schedule at 9:39:42 p.m. Moscow time (1:39:42 p.m. EST) and was photographed from astronomic observatories in Kislovodsk and Tashkent. It could not be seen with the naked eye or "simple optical devices," the radio said.

Tass said the scientific capsule separated from the final stage of the rocket at 3 p.m. local time. The announcement referred to the last stage of the rocket as "guided"—terminology not fully explained here.

(Some scientists in Washington said that from a strictly technical point of view, the Soviets had gambled on a less favorable date for their new moon shot. From a propaganda standpoint, however, the shot would be well timed to coincide with Khrushchev's trip.

(U.S. scientists were reported waiting until October to make their next shot at the moon, a 375-pound space capsule. Scientists in Washington said this time of the month is least favorable because the moon is farther away from the earth. The moon and the earth will be at their closest, 220,000 miles, for three days starting Oct. 2.)

The newest Soviet rocket precedes Khrushchev's trip just as the first announced Soviet moon shot came shortly before the January U.S. visit by Anastas Mikoyan, first deputy premier and one of Khrushchev's right-hand men.

Thus the Soviet Union has been building up a publicity backlog of scientific achievements. Morning papers here dwelt heavily on the fact the new atomic icebreaker Lenin was to be moved during the day into Leningrad's Neva River for cruising trials.

Moscow radio, striking a chime, broke into its afternoon programs to announce the moon shot. It continued breaking in with the latest bulletins and broadcast a minute of radio signals being flashed to the earth from the speeding rocket.

Apparently confident of success, the Soviets distributed a bulletin on the rocket's progress only hours after its launching.

"It is expected that the Cosmic rocket will reach the moon on Sept. 14 at 12:05 a.m. Moscow time—4:05 p.m., Eastern Standard Time, Sunday," the announcement said.

Previous announcement of Sputnik launchings and other space probes sometimes have lagged a day or so until they were safely on their way. There never has been an announcement of an unsuccessful shot.

The first communique distributed by the official Soviet news agency Tass did not make clear whether the scientists aimed to hit the moon or put the space capsule into orbit around it. Tass said "the launching of the rocket was made for the purpose of studying cosmic space during the flight toward the moon."

The moon provides a target 2,160 miles in diameter approximately 240,000 miles away from the earth.

The new rocket had several points in common with the first announced moon rocket fired Jan. 2 and named Mechta (Dream).

Tass said the final stage of the new rocket weighs 3,342.2 pounds, not counting fuel. The last stage of Mechta weighed 3,245.2 pounds and contained an instrument package weighing 79.65 pounds. Tass said the instrument package in the new rocket weighs 859.8 pounds.

But while the entire 1½-ton last stage of Mechta went on around the sun, Tass indicated the new rocket's instrument capsule was designed to split off from its final-stage carrier.

Both were reported fired from multistage rockets on the ground. As usual, there were no details of the over-all rocket that sent the instrument capsule speeding beyond the earth's atmosphere at better than the 11,200 meters—about 7 miles a second needed to escape the earth's gravitational pull.

There was no announcement of any passenger, either human or animal. The weight of the instrument package suggested a man, or even a dog, would seem to be out of the question.

Ike, Nikita Start Talks With Views That Conflict

They can agree in general terms that atomic war except in self-defense is unthinkable, that disarmament is highly desirable and that while they disagree on many problems they can avoid sharpening their disputes and can hope that time and changing circumstances will make possible solutions not now in sight.

Eisenhower himself has told associates he was moved to initiate the exchange of visits with Khrushchev primarily for one purpose. The world, as he sees it, has a choice of two roads before it. One is the present road of the nuclear arms and missiles race which can lead only to one of two results—bankruptcy or war.

The other is the road of international cooperation, disarmament and eventually peace. The President has not ruled out the possibility that Khrushchev might be willing sooner or later to enter into agreements which would put the world on this route. This is the central possibility he wants to explore.

Problems which are due for discussion in the Eisenhower-Khrushchev talks include:

1. BERLIN — Khrushchev has made clear in several public statements about his American visit that he intends to press once again for withdrawal of U.S., British and French forces from West Berlin.

2. GERMANY — Khrushchev wrote recently that the West must accept that Germany will remain divided for a long time and the Western powers must reckon with the existence of Communist East Germany as well as the West German government. He can be expected to press once more for a peace treaty made with the two separate German regimes. Eisenhower is equally adamant in saying the United States will not make such a treaty.

3. DISARMAMENT — The Western powers have already made a concession on this problem, agreeing to revive the long-stalled negotiations in a 10-nation committee divided equally between Communist and Allied counties. This gives the Soviet Union the parity of membership it had demanded. But the central issue of disarmament—an adequate inspection system which would work inside the U.S.S.R. as well as other countries—is as far from solution as ever.

4. TRADE — Khrushchev has indicated he will raise this topic, but Eisenhower may do so first.

5. RED CHINA — The President wants Khrushchev to use his influence to curb Red China's periodic military thrusts which in the past have threatened Formosa and Southeast Asia and once involved Korea in a costly war.

6. LAOS — Eisenhower is expected to tell Khrushchev bluntly that the United States has been deeply concerned over what it considers Communist aggression in the tiny Southeast Asian countries.

7. FOREIGN BASES — Khrushchev is expected to tell the President that encirclement of the Soviet Union by American bases is a source of constant worry to his government and people and that any general agreements ending the cold war should lead to dismantling these bases. Eisenhower is known to have no intention of liquidating the structure which was built in response to Soviet threats and is still considered a vital arm of the Western defense system.

Nehru Accused Of Appeasement

"The real danger is not the army but the words being said in Peiping," he declared.

Nehru told the House not to put the border situation into Communist or non-Communist terms. The Soviet government, he said, "seems to be taking a calm, more or less dispassionate attitude" toward Chinese claims to about 35,000 square miles of Indian territory.

Nehru expressed his opposition to the contention of a recent note from Red Chinese Premier Chou En-lai that the tiny Himalayan states of Sikkim and Bhutan have nothing to do with the current border troubles. He said India rightfully has taken responsibility for defense of these states if they are attacked.

Butler Offers New Plan For Allocating Convention Votes

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new plan for allocating votes in the 1960 Democratic National Convention was advanced Saturday by Paul M. Butler, national committee chairman.

The plan would scrap a complicated bonus system in use since 1944. Butler termed that system not fair or equitable.

Butler will seek adoption of his new plan at a meeting of the committee here next Wednesday, along with another resolution dealing with the good faith of delegates. Fights loom over both issues.

Butler has mailed copies of his delegate apportionment plan to committee members. Under it, the 1960 convention would have 1,475 votes as compared with 1,372 in 1956; a possible 2,950 delegates as against 2,744 in 1956, and 1,475 alternates compared with 1,896 in the last convention.

Thirty-two states and territories would gain votes over their 1956 allocation; 15 states, including the three Southern states of Arkansas, Florida, and Tennessee, would lose votes. Seven states would have the same number as in 1956.

Butler proposed that each state get three votes for each U.S. senator, instead of the basic two as before; two and a half votes for each House member instead of two, and one-half vote for each of its two national committee members who would be ex-officio delegates.

Wherever this distribution resulted in a fractional vote for any state, the next highest number would be used. For example, Alabama's allotment comes to a mathematical 29½ votes but it would get 30 votes.

There would be eight votes for the District of Columbia, six for Puerto Rico, and three each for the Virgin Islands and Canal Zone.

States could elect one delegate with a full vote or two delegates each with one-half vote for each of the proposed votes, except those of the national committee members.

The bonus system as employed in 1944 and 1948 gave states four additional votes for returning a majority vote to the Democratic presidential ticket in the prior election. In 1952 another bonus of two votes was granted to a state for each congressional district lost under the 1950 reapportionment.

In 1956, two additional bonuses were voted. Four votes each were authorized for states going Democratic in the 1952 presidential race and election of a Democratic governor or senator in 1952 or 1954.

The net result of this bonus-on-bonus formula, Butler said, was a "grossly distorted representation" in the 1956 convention. Two states, he said, had bonuses exceeding the number of their basic votes.

Hopes Dim For Any Changes In Ag Programs Before '62

By OVID A. MARTIN

WASHINGTON (AP)—There is a growing feeling among farm groups that any broad revisions in federal agricultural programs may be two years away.

This belief is based on the fact that the Eisenhower administration and the Democrat-controlled Congress have been unable to get together.

Bills passed by Congress ran into presidential vetoes because they did not match the Eisenhower philosophy that agriculture should lessen its dependence on government crop control, price-fixing and marketing control measures.

Congressional leaders talk of making another try at farm legislation next year. They say the time between the present and new session will give lawmakers a new opportunity to learn what farmers want.

But most farm leaders see little prospect of anything concrete being put into law in 1960. The coming session will be influenced by political maneuvering for the presidential and congressional elections.

Democrats will be seeking advantage over the Republicans and the Republicans over the Democrats. Furthermore, there will be conflicts within a party, reflecting presidential aspirations of various candidates.

Naturally, any farm legislation passed by Congress would carry the banner of the Democrats—a banner they would carry into important farm states during the campaign. The chances are such legislation would be contrary to Eisenhower administration policies—just as was the case this year—and would again be vetoed.

Should this be the case, the task then of remodeling farm programs would have to be put off until 1961, when a new administration and a new congress take over.

Some Republicans who want more rather than less government assistance to agriculture still nourish a hope that their party's position on this issue will be changed before the election.

Prospects of a delay of two more years in eliminating weaknesses of present farm program worry many agricultural leaders. They are concerned that federal farm programs may get such a black eye in the meantime that the public will demand that all be junked.

CIVIL RIGHTS ROW TIES UP SENATE

the other, there was no certainty that the quitting date would come on Monday—the day before the scheduled arrival of Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev.

For the Senate, there was the ever-present threat that Sen. Wayne Morse (D-Ore) would engage in delaying tactics he previously said were designed to keep the lawmakers at work until Khrushchev arrives.

Morse was reported to have told leaders of both parties, however, that he would not throw up new roadblocks against a Monday adjournment—if the Dixie senators finished their token but highly vocal resistance then against continuing the existence of the Civil Rights Commission.

against the Civil Rights Commission on a proposal to extend the commission's life for two more years. Approval of two-thirds of those voting was required to attach the extension to the foreign aid and money bill. It is against the rules to write new law in an appropriations bill.

The tacit agreement was that Northern advocates would wait until next year to press for action on a strong civil rights bill. They conditioned that on a verbal promise from Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas that the matter would be brought up early in the session and on the supposition the Southerners wouldn't engage in a filibuster now.

Dawdling through a morning session, the Senate got around at noon to 49-40 passage of a bill which would permit President Eisenhower to expand economic aid to Iron Curtain countries if he thinks that is wise.

The body had passed the bill previously but it was recalled on insistence of Sen. Styles Bridges of New Hampshire, chairman of the GOP Policy Committee.

Bridges said the United States is "treading on dangerous ground" in doing business with Communists. Sen. George D. Aiken (R-Vt), citing Eisenhower's support for the bill, replied that some seem to think "the only way to solve issues is by war." He denied, however, he was calling Bridges and other opponents warmongers.

With this out of the way, the Senate speedily passed by a voice vote a compromise bill permitting an increase in the interest rates on government savings bonds. The House followed suit, sending the bill to the White House, before quitting until Monday.

As it finally was approved, the bill would put a 4½ per cent ceiling on these rates. The Treasury wants to raise the present 3.26 per cent return to 3¾ per cent.

Eisenhower's request for abolition of the 4¼ per cent interest ceiling on long-term, marketable bonds was ignored. Some administration officials said this could cause the President to call Congress back into special session later in the year.

Morse, who has been waging a lone-wolf drive to prevent what he terms hasty adjournment of Congress, got in new delaying licks when Sen. A. Willis Robertson (D-Va) offered an amendment to the foreign aid bill. The Oregon senator forced a quorum call and then announced he would speak at length on the right of the President and his assistants to withhold information from Congress.

Wynn Gains 20th Victory And Magic Number Is Now Nine

Harry Grayson's SCOREBOARD

By HARRY GRAYSON
NEA Sports Editor

NEW YORK — (NEA) — Hard-to-believe reports have Alfonso Ramon Lopez not returning to Chicago next season after winning the White Sox' first pennant in 40 years.

The answer to these wild rumors is that Al Lopez would be prominent on the South Side next spring even if he were not on speaking terms with Bill Veeck and Hank Greenberg, the latter his employer in Cleveland when he was kicked upstairs to Comiskey Park. In the end, you see, the Chisox players would bring Senor Lopez back.

But let's get the real pitch from Senor Lopez himself.

"Veeck, Greenberg and myself are the best of friends," says the soft-spoken idol of the Tampa cigarmakers. "They offered me a contract for any length of time. I simply told them that I would prefer to first concentrate on winning the championship."

Lopez is first to admit that things have broken fortunately for the Singles Wonders, right down to Theodore Bernard Kluszewski being obtained late from the Pirates, just turned 35 and "swinging the bat real good."

"Our big lift came from the development of Jim Landis in center field," says Lopez, "and Bob Shaw has been our most pleasant surprise, picking up the pitching slack while Dick Donovan was out with shoulder trouble and Billy Pierce with the aggravated hip."

EVEN A brief chat with Senor Lopez dispels all thought about his being dissatisfied in the Loop — with the front office or otherwise. As I have said before, he's having more fun than anybody else in Chicago with "his kind of team," as Leo Durocher used to say. He's really enjoying his wonderful Singles Wonders and the minor miracles they are working.

"You can do so many things with this outfit," Senor Lopez repeats, "the things that were meant to be done in baseball. Boy, we are the old, old Baltimore Orioles all over again. We hit and run with the ball batted behind the runner. They have to throw us out. We take the extra base, steal everything, including first base.

"We keep our pitchers hungry by not scoring too many runs, yet score often enough to keep them from becoming discouraged."

SENOR LOPEZ IS CONVINCED that the White Sox will finish n top or thereabouts for some years to come.

"We have several good-looking kids, and how about Luis Aparicio being the best shortstop you ever saw at 25?" he smiles. "Landis is only 25, Jim McAnany 23, Norman Cash 24 and John Romano is a fine catcher and hitter at 25. Early Battey is 24.

"Johnny Callison, just recalled from Indianapolis, could be our big outfielder and ballplayer and he's only 20. Camilo Carreon, a catcher, was the American Association recruit-of-the-year batting .320. J. C. Martin is expected to be our first baseman one day. He played third base for Indianapolis only because the Indians also had Ron Jackson.

As we said before, the players, if nothing else, would bring Al Lopez scampering back to the lakefront.

The baseball man out in front suffers no pain.

Chisox End Scoreless Famine By Posting 6-1 Triumph Over Orioles

By GEORGE BOWEN

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Chicago White Sox ended a 26-inning famine Saturday as pitcher Early Wynn beat the Baltimore Orioles 6-1 to become the American League's first 20-game winner of the season.

The White Sox maintained a four game American League lead over second - place Cleveland, which defeated Washington 7-2. Chicago has 11 games to play, Cleveland 13.

The White Sox, who went scoreless in 25 innings required for two games against the Orioles Friday night, went down in order to start this afternoon's season finale in Baltimore.

The White Sox broke the monotonous string of goose eggs with a pair of runs in the second off southpaw Billy O'Dell, who hadn't been scored upon in 19 innings.

O'Dell walked John Romano, who scored on successive singles by Ted Kluszewski and Jim Landis. Right fielder Al Pilarcik lost Bubba Phillips' fly ball in the sun and it dropped for a double, scoring Kluszewski.

Al Smith's single and Kluszewski's second of three hits scored another Chicago run in the third. A steal of home by Landis capped a crazy eighth inning in which the White Sox doubled their run total to six.

The 39-year-old Wynn, who has lost nine this season, had to bear down hard in the seventh and eighth innings to register the 269th victory of his career.

In the seventh, the Orioles loaded the bases on singles by Willie Tasby and Joe Ginsberg and a walk. Pinch-hitter Gene Woodling tapped back to Wynn, who started an inning-ending double play.

'Sad Sam' And Giants Pick Up Important Win Over Phillies, 9-1

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Sam Jones overcame early wildness Saturday and picked up his 20th victory—a 9-1 decision over Philadelphia. That gave his San Francisco Giants a one-game National League lead over Milwaukee and idle Los Angeles.

Giant power—doubles by Daryl Spencer and Hobie Landrith, Jones' single and Ed Bressoud's triple in the sixth inning and Orlando Cepeda's two-run homer in the seventh—provided more than enough cushion for the 33-year-old right-hander.

The Giants gathered 12 hits and were handed 9 walks by 4 hurlers.

Jones, as he has done all season, proved the Giants' stopper. San Francisco had lost two straight games and its lead was pared from three games to only one-half before Sam righted them.

Sam held the Phils to four singles. Two of them in the fourth by Harry Anderson and George Anderson, with an infield out sandwiched between, produced the Phils' run.

It took the 6-feet-4 Negro, who pitches with a toothpick tucked in his mouth, five National League seasons to hit the 20-victory mark. He's lost 12. Previously he played briefly for Cleveland of the American League in 1951-52.

This season he defeated the defending champion Milwaukee Braves five times and saved two other games against them. He whipped runnerup Los Angeles three times, including two shutouts.

Boyer Extends Hitting String As Cards Win, 6-4

CHICAGO (AP) — Ken Boyer used his 28th homer and a stand up triple to extend his consecutive hitting streak to 29 games Saturday as the St. Louis Cardinals rode rookie Bob Gibson's six-hit pitching to a 6-4 conquest of the Chicago Cubs.

Boyer waited no longer than his first turn at bat to drive losing lefty Art Ceccarelli's third pitch into the left field seats behind a two out walk to Joe Cunningham. This gave St. Louis a 2-0 lead and squared the series at a game apiece.

The Cardinal captain opened the fourth with his triple, a drive into the right field corner. After Gene Oliver popped out and Gene Green was intentionally walked, Boyer scored when Tony Taylor drew an error after failing to make a baseline tag of Oliver on Duke Carmel's grounder.

Thus the 22-year-old Cardinal rookie from New York City received credit for his first major league run batted in. Two innings later Carmel used his first major league hit, a single, to account for a second run batted in.

Mathews' Home Run In Eighth Gives Milwaukee 4-3 Win

By DAVE O'HARA
Associated Press Sports Writer

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The Milwaukee Braves ran their dramatic winning string to seven games in their hot pursuit of the National League pennant by defeating the Cincinnati Reds 4-3 Saturday on Eddie Mathews' two-run homer in the eighth.

Mathews' 37th blast boosted fidgety Lew Burdette to his 20th victory of the campaign and moved the Braves within a half game of first place San Francisco, pending the outcome of the Giants' game with Philadelphia.

The Braves collected only five hits off righthander Don Newcombe but put together two for a run in the fourth and two more for another tally in the sixth.

Newcomb's only walk started his downfall. Pinch hitter Mickey Vernon walked to lead off the eighth. Burdette bunted down the first base line, but pinch runner Johnny Demerit was forced at second. Billy Bruton fouled to the catcher for the second out and Mathews then teed off on the first pitch.

The Braves appeared headed for defeat after a seventh inning Cincinnati run set up by an Alphonse-Gaston act in the outfield. Willie Jones led off with a single and Eddie Kasko followed with a routine fly to left center. However, rookie Lee Maye and Bruton got their signals crossed and allowed the ball to fall at their feet for a hit. A sacrifice bunt by Newcombe and a sacrifice fly by Johnny Temple nudged the Reds into a 3-2 lead.

'I Hope We Stay Hot': Alston

LOS ANGELES (AP)— "I just hope we stay hot."

Those words by Los Angeles Dodger Manager Walter Alston summed up the sentiments of a flock of enthused Dodger fans Saturday.

Their hopes that Los Angeles would see its first world series had been flickering. But they're not flickering after Friday night.

The Dodgers' double victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates (5-4, 4-0) touched off a new burst of pennant fever that has the town buzzing.

The Dodgers were idle Saturday.

Don Drysdale of the Dodgers, Gene Conley of the Phils, Vern Law of the Pirates and Sam Jones of the Giants have beaten every National League club at least once this season.

Loss Of Key Linemen Dampens Our Hopes For '59: ISD Coach

By JIM BONDS, ISD COACH
As told to Stan Spotts, Sports Editor

Prospects aren't bright for our 1959 season as we lost all of our key linemen from tackle to tackle via graduation. This situation forces us to switch lettermen from ends to guards and etc., in order to plug up the vacated positions.

We have four freshmen being groomed for varsity action, two of whom may be starting linemen. One is a fair-sized lad at 202 pounds but the others lack experience and weight. Our line won't be nearly as big or fast as in the past but we do have five veterans on the forward wall on which we hope to form our nucleus. They are Bill Davis, 183; A. C. Parish, 149; Louie Edwards, 165; Bob Lind, 154, and Melvin Lind, 176.

In the backfield, this should be our bright spot barring injuries. In veterans Bob Higdon, 109, Dale Thompson, 155, Ernest Richmond, 141, and Dick Grob, 140, we have a 1-2-3-4 scoring punch. One freshman, Bobby Poncar, 170, will probably be a starting halfback.

We'll be a lot stronger in our passing attack with the shift of Parish and Edwards to the end berths. Both can move very well and should prove capable targets for Grob's aerials. The nine lettermen should be well acquainted with our Split T offense.

As in the past, our biggest weapon will be defense. Of the 33 boys undergoing drills for our opener with Dupo next Saturday, 18 are freshmen.

Jim Bonds

Editor's note — Bonds, who was an outstanding athlete at Chapin and Illinois College, is Jim Spink's successor at ISD and will assume head coaching posts in football, basketball and track. Jim is married, has two children, James, 5, and Suzan, 3, and they reside at 1100 W. Walnut.

MILWAUKEE (AP)—A helicopter and an electric golf cart collided on the second fairway of the Tripoli Golf Club.

The whirlybird had landed to pick up two golfers and take them to an exhibition in Illinois. The driver of the cart bearing the golfers forgot to set the handbrake and the little machine surged into the helicopter, tearing a gaping hole in the side.

Nebraska Needs Pheasant Hunters

LINCOLN, Nebr. — Nebraska's pheasant hunting will be better than anticipated earlier, reports M. O. Steen, Game Commission director. Late surveys show that the population has increased by 40 to 50 per cent over last year's tremendous numbers, putting an estimated nine million pheasants in the field when the season begins October 24.

Steen announced the high population figure following a report of department technicians who had just completed the extensive summer survey.

"Unfortunately," he continued, "the season had to be set before the late survey was finished. There is no doubt but that the pheasant season could be more generous than that set for this fall—65 days with bag and possession limits of four and twelve in the major zone."

Last year Nebraska's pheasant harvest was 1¼ million birds, far below what was available. This year it could hit 3¼ million pheasants and still there would be more than enough breeding pheasants for the next spring.

"We have the birds," Steen said. "Now all we need are the hunters to harvest them. Last year's shooters took only 15 per cent of our harvestable birds."

Season dates for pheasant are October 24 through December 27 in the major zone, and October 24 through December 13 in the other, including Sunday hunting.

Steen said the prospects for quail and grouse hunting continue on a very optimistic hue.

"We have the largest quail population ever in the state," he pointed out. "The birds are so plentiful that they are occupying marginal covers. We have one report of a young brood roosting in the middle of a road. With sufficient hunters and distributed favorably throughout the open area, the state's quail harvest could reach one million.

Olmedo Meets Frazer For Title In National

By WILL GRIMSLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP)—Peruvian Alex Olmedo turned on titantic, breath-taking tennis in a 15-13, 6-4, 3-6, 6-1 victory over darkhorse Ron Holmberg Saturday and qualified for a revenge shot at Australia's Neale Fraser in Sunday's final of the National Tennis Championships.

Fraser, who upset Olmedo in four sets in the recent Davis Cup challenge round, used his dynamic lefthanded service as a weapon of destruction in crushing little Bernard (Tut) Bartzen of Dallas 6-3, 6-2, 6-2.

This took only 60 minutes, 12 less than the thrill-paced opening set between Olmedo and the 21-year-old Holmberg, both playing brilliant, slashing tennis.

In a staggering blow to American tennis prestige, U.S. players were shut out of both their men's and women's singles finals for the first time in history.

Wimbledon champion Maria Bueno of Brazil turned back the lone remaining U.S. woman, Darlene Hard of Montebello, Calif., 6-2, 6-4 to go into the last round against Britain's six-foot Christine Truman. Miss Truman, holder of the French and Italian championships, expelled her Wightman Cup teammate, lefty Ann Haydon, 6-2, 6-3.

This is the first all-foreign last round in the women's division since 1937 when Anita Lizana of Chile beat Jadwiga Jadrzejowska of Poland.

It will be the first time ever in this tournament, dating back to 1881, that two outsiders have walked off with both the men's and women's crowns in a single year.

The nearest thing to such an indignity came in 1926 when Rene Lacoste of France won the men's title and the women's crown went to Mrs. Molla Bjurstedt Mallory, a Norwegian playing as the wife of an American.

NEW PROFIT FOR FAIR

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — The 70,150 pounds of milk produced by 400 show cows during the Illinois State Fair a month ago did not go down the drain as usual.

It was saved by newly installed collection equipment and will go into 7,000 pounds of cheese at a profit to exhibitors, fair officials said Saturday.

Bell Pitches Tribe To 7-2 Win Over Nats

By WHITNEY SHOEMAKER

WASHINGTON (AP) — Young Garry Bell's magnificent three-hit pitching eased Cleveland to a 7-2 victory over Washington Saturday and helped the Indians stay four full games behind the pace-setting Chicago White Sox.

However, time is running out on Cleveland, as the White Sox also won, defeating Baltimore 6-1.

The Sox magic number now is nine. Chicago has 11 games left to play, and Cleveland 13. Any combination of nine White Sox victories or Indian defeats will clinch the pennant for Chicago.

Jim Lemon's 30th home run of the season in the seventh was the only solid blow off Bell. It came after a walk to Lenny Green and accounted for the Senators' runs.

Bell enjoyed superior home run support, as both Rocky Colavito and Woody Held hit the bleachers in a four-run Cleveland sixth.

The four-bagger was Colavito's 41st of the season and sent him 1 up over Washington's Harmon Killebrew, who fanned twice on a hitless afternoon.

Bell, 22-year-old right-hander, struck out seven and gave up only one hit—a slap to right by Washington starter Russ Kemmerer—before Lemon cut loose. The triumph was Bell's 16th and his third without a defeat over Washington. He's lost 11.

Held particularly relished the Senators' hurling, batting in two runs with his homer, another with a triple and scoring after a single.

Kemmerer, who lived uncomfortably through six innings, was charged with the loss. He was tagged for all seven runs and nine of Cleveland's 10 hits. Hal Griggs and Chuck Stobbs kept the revived Indians pretty well in hand through the last three innings.

Cleveland punched over its first run in the third on Held's single and Chuck Tanner's double.

I.C. Mentors Pleased With Blue-White Tilt

Yesterday morning at 9:30, the Illinois College Blueboys officially marked the end of their pre-season practice with the running of the annual Blue-White football game. Although the score ended in favor of the White team, 26-6, it was a very evenly played game that brought a sparkle to the eyes of coaches Brooks and Merris. The I.C. mentors were well pleased with the way the players handled themselves. They also agree that this should be the toughest I.C. squad in many years.

The line play was very tough both on offense and defense. The work of the quarterbacks for both sides was also very encouraging. However, it was the running of halfbacks Harry Sweet and Dick Orendorff that completely stole the show. Sweet, running at right half for the Blue squad scored their only touchdown and was the leading ground gainer for his team. His touchdown came on an off-tackle run that went for 20 yards. Dick Orendorff picked up two of the touchdowns for his squad with runs of 37 and 30 yards. The longest run of the day was registered by junior halfback Bill Conklin who scored in the third quarter on an off-tackle play that went for 71 yards. Freshman fullback Chauncey Whitaker scored the other White T. D. on a run of 11 yards around end.

A slight oddity occurred in the final statistics of the game. While the losing Blue squad racked up 11 first downs on 234 yards, the winning White squad could get only 6 first downs on 362 yards. However, this can be explained by the fact that the White squad had runs of 32, 37, 30, 45, 30, 71, and 30 yards throughout the game.

The Blueboys have come through their first week with only a minimum of injuries. However, the I.C. camp received one blow when junior guard and one of the nation's leading punters, Frank Harris, received an injury to his back. The extent of his injury is not known, but it is hoped that he will be ready for the opening game of the season next Saturday with Central Missouri. With still about 10 more expected to join the squad next week, this could well be the biggest team the fans of Jacksonville will have had the pleasure of watching since the days the Blueboys were members of the tough C.C.I. conference.

Singled out for special comment were several boys on both squads, most of them veterans. Bobby Volk, Springfield sophomore, calling signals for the White, was looking pretty capable; while Orendorff, Conklin and Sweet, Franklin sophomore, looked to be top halfback material—all of them doing some good running.

In the line, Terry Ransom, Springfield freshman, and Ed Puck, sophomore letterman, at end for the White, and Bob Hamm with his pass receiving at end for the Blue came in for notice. Chuck Sheppard, sophomore letterman tackle, was looking good at the same old stand.

Dale Williams, Waverly sophomore, playing at guard and middle linebacker was a standout on defense. Bob Berry, freshman guard from Massachusetts, also looked good on defense, while Gene Wells, Jacksonville freshman guard, was blocking well on offense.

To fill the hole at center, Captain Willie Haas had been shifted there from guard, and appeared to be making the transition well.

In addition to Sheppard at tackle, Brooks and Merris have at least three other stalwarts there who will see a lot of action, veterans Bill Reneker, Dale Bellovich and Fred Maier.

One change which seems to be taking hold is the shift of freshman John Scattergood to defensive halfback.

Playing N.A.I.A. rules this year which will allow unlimited substitution, Brooks plans to build toward a lot of specialization such as the Scattergood assignment. Although he believes that the Blueboys will be in the best position in years for two platoon play, Brooks still has the problem of finding the fullback who will eventually "go" with his squad. Among the several green ones working for the spot, freshman Whitaker, and juniors Tom Phillips and Truman Cope seem to be leading the parade.

With regular college routine beginning Monday on the hill, Brooks and Merris will be cutting their practice sessions to one a day. Saturday's opener with Central College of Missouri will start at 2 p.m. on the College Field, corner of Park and Edgehill.

RENT STADIUM FOR RALLY TO PROTEST NIKITA'S VISIT

PHILADELPHIA (AP)— Several groups jointly rented Connie Mack Stadium Friday night for a rally to protest Nikita Khrushchev's visit to the United States.

Rally organizers predicted a crowd in excess of 15,000 would turn up at the 35,000-seat stadium, but police estimated less than 1,000 were on hand.

Purdue Strong Enough To Field Two Teams

By JERRY LISKA
Associated Press Sports Writer

LAFAYETTE, Ind. (AP) — How strong is Purdue, a ranking contender in any preview of the 1959 Big Ten football race?

Strong enough to field two teams which evenly will divide playing time no matter what the position of the ball or fortune of the battle.

Coach Jack Mollenkopf has added the winged T to his basic straight T formation and seems destined to have an improved offense.

Like every coach, Mollenkopf is looking for a break-away runner to hone his attack. He may have a game-breaker in tiny seat back, Jim Tiller, the squad's fastest man, who stands 5-feet 7 and weighs 153. But whether Tiller, a letterman junior, can stand up under the rugged Big Ten pace is conjectural.

"We think we are going to have a good team," said Mollenkopf, whose 1958 club was a defensive powerhouse which had a 6-1-2 overall record and finished fourth in the Big Ten with 3-1-2.

"I don't know why we should be any weaker defensively than last year," he continued. "Offensively, we haven't found ourselves yet, but we like to think a good potential is there."

Depending upon the blocking skill of a line lacking last fall's size, Purdue can field two all-lettermen backfield units especially strong at right half and fullback. Bo Jarus and Jack Laraway give the Boilermakers terrific fullback punch. Mollenkopf says veteran Clyde Washington and Len Wilson represent the best right half talent in his Purdue regime.

Quarterbacking Mollenkopf says, will have the same one-two punch it had last season. Only this fall, starter Ross Fichtner will alternate with Bernie Allen, who has replaced the graduated Bob Spoo. Both Fichtner and Allen pass and run well.

At left half, Joe Kulbacki, senior who averaged better than five yards per try last fall, is backed by Tiller.

In the line, the starters include Dick Brooks and Len Jardine at ends; Jerry Beabout (214) and Dale Rems (218) at tackles; Ron Maltony (204) and Embry Turner (219) at guards, and Sam Joyner (206) at center.

Mollenkopf considers Brooks "one of the under-rated Big Ten players." Maltony had a tremendous sophomore season last year. Turner is called "a real good guard" by Mollenkopf, who is proud of the fact that this engineering student came to Purdue unknown as a football player. Maltony, Beabout and Rems are juniors, the rest seniors.

Although Purdue lost 19 lettermen, close analysis shows that only five played more than 200 minutes each—including ends Tom Franckhauser and John Crowl, tackle Gene Selawski, quarterback Spoo and halfback Tom Barnett.

After facing UCLA and Notre Dame in nonleague play, Purdue must meet on successive Saturdays the three teams that finished higher in the Big Ten standings last year—Wisconsin, Ohio State and Iowa.

One coach has said the key game in the title race will be the Purdue-Wisconsin clash Oct. 10 at Lafayette.

Sachs Wins N.Y. State Fair Race

SYRACUSE, N. Y. (AP)— Eddie Sachs piloted his crimson racer to victory in near-record time Saturday in the annual 100-mile big car race at the New York State Fair.

Sachs, a veteran of 10 years of racing, won by more than a half mile. It was worth $4,375 and 200 championship points to Sachs.

Don Branson of Champaign, Ill., and Rodger Ward of Speedway, Ind., winner of the Indianapolis 500-mile race last May, duelled throughout the race for second place. Branson edged Ward by 40 feet.

Branson won $3,150, and Ward $1,750.

Sachs covered 100 miles on a one-mile dirt track in 63 minutes, 44.85 seconds, for an average speed of 95 miles per hour.

Detroit Blanks New York, 4-0

NEW YORK (AP)—Don Mossi outpitched Whitey Ford in a battle of left handers Saturday and the Detroit Tigers blanked the New York Yankees 4-0 in the season's finale game between the two clubs.

Mossi held the New Yorkers to four hits in winning the game which gave the Tigers a 14-8 edge in the season's series. Mossi had the situation under control throughout.

The victory also put Detroit within half a game of New York in the battle for third place in the American League.

Ford was nicked for 11 hits in the eight innings he worked, and handed the Tigers their first run in the third inning, by walking Charley Maxwell with the bases full.

LSU Favored To Keep National Gridiron Ranking

By JACK CLARY
Associated Press Sports Writer

Defending national champion Louisiana State is the choice of the nation's sportswriters and broadcasters to keep its title according to the annual Associated Press pre-season football poll.

The Bayou Bengals of Coach Paul Dietzel polled 60 first place votes en route to accumulating 1,440, only 70 ahead of Oklahoma which drew 48 first place votes.

The only other contender was Auburn, which polled 1,047 votes but only 17 for the top spot. Votes were on a 10 for first place, nine for second, etc. basis.

Southern Methodist, led by quarterback Don Meredith and the big threat in the Southwest Conference, was fourth with 720, but got only six first place votes. Lambert Trophy winner Army was next with 696 and four nominations for the No. 1 spot.

The final poll of the football season will determine the national champion. It will follow games of Saturday, Nov. 28.

Wisconsin, which drew 10 first place votes, was sixth with 645 and had 548 and a pair of top nominations. Ohio State was last year's pre-season choice, but finished No. 8.

Mississippi, No. 8, had 546 votes, five for first place, with Iowa, defending Rose Bowl and Big Ten champ, getting ninth with 443 votes, four for first place. Northwestern rounded out the top ten with 441, and six first place votes.

LSU, which barely drew a nod in last year's early poll went through its 1958 season undefeated, won the Sugar Bowl and brings back 31 of 35 lettermen, including All America halfback Billy Cannon and his famous three platoon compatriots of the White Team. Go Team and the Chinese Bandits. The Tigers were first in the final six AP polls last year.

Ramsey In Hawks' Lineup For Syracuse Contest In JHS Bowl

Ticket sales at Mac's Clothing Store have been moving rapidly for the St. Louis Hawks, Syracuse Nationals contest in the JHS Bowl October 14. A large crowd is expected to witness the stellar attraction.

Below is a feature on one of the Hawks players appearing here.

On Christmas Day of 1950, the 13-year-old Cal Ramsey was much too advanced to believe in Santa Claus. Hence his mother didn't bother to leave one particular present under the tree. It was such a special gift that she wanted to hand it to the boy with the plea that he use it. The present was a basketball.

"Cal," said his mother wistfully, "I just wish you'd try the game and see if you like it."

"Thanks, Mom," said Cal. "I'll give it a try. But he did it only from a sense of gratitude and love. Basketball never did interest him a bit. Baseball was his game, just as basketball had been his mother's game at high school in Selma, Ala. But he couldn't disappoint so devoted a mother. He took the ball on the Harlem streets that afternoon, and got the feel of it in an impromptu game with the other kids—basketball without baskets.

A few days later, Cal took the ball to a real court at Mount Morris Park. He took his first shot and missed. But as soon as he hooked one through the hoop, he was hooked. Cal discovered he liked basketball. However, not until he was in the High School of Commerce, in 1952, — he really went there in the hope of playing baseball — did the basketball bug bite him so violently that it devoured him. That's when he started to go for the dribble diversion around the calendar. In effect, he hung up his glove and spikes. He became a court nut. The Christmas present had changed his life and opened up a new future to him.

Cal Ramsey is now a member of the St. Louis Hawks. At least, he will be if he can make the club and stick out this year—his first in the National Basketball Association. He was perhaps the best collegiate basketball player in New York City for the past three years.

As a schoolboy at Commerce, Cal averaged six points a game in his sophomore year. As a junior he hit for 17 and as a senior for 29. His best game?

"It was against Textile," he said dreamily. "I scored 38 points but the important thing was that I only missed four shots all day."

Cal is a soft-spoken, articulate and intelligent young man, a top-ranking student who had no worries about college entrance examinations. But which college should he enter? Scholarship offers flooded him, and the college that interested him the most was Duquesne. However, the Iron Dukes began to get coy and Ramsey started to look elsewhere.

Having been accepted by two colleges out of the state, Cal packed his bags in September of 1955 and then unpacked them. He lives in Harlem with his mother and grandmother. Granny was sick at the time and the thoughtful youngster decided he'd better remain close to home. So he hopped into the subway and entered N.Y.U.

It was a pleasant relationship for both. Cal was the star of the freshman team with a 23-point average. He also became the star of the varsity as a sophomore. He scored at a fine 21.1 a game figure but his rebounding was definitely more impressive, because his average of 19.6 per game was the seventh highest in the nation.

"He's as bouncy as a golf ball off a cement walk," one college official commented.

It's a neat description although Ramsey is not especially tall by basketball standards. He's "only" 6 feet 4 inches but he has the elastic spring of a kangaroo.

"Don't start comparing me to Bill Russell of the Celtics," warned Ramsey with an engaging grin. "He goes up so high he's practically out of this world. He even gets his elbows above the rim. And that Chamberlain, man, he's almost in orbit."

Carrollton

CARROLLTON — Coach Geoffrey Moore's Hawks, who lost only one game last season and placed second to Roodhouse in the Illinois Valley, have their work cut out this season in finding a replacement for Ronnie Carter. The heartbreaking loss to the Railroaders came in the closing seconds of the game on a pass.

Moore has five veterans in co-captains Don Retherford, 180, and Robert Lake, 170; Larry Shaw, 165; Gene Goeddy, 220, and Bill Robinson, 160. Others being groomed for action are G. B Griffith, 170; David Jilg, 190; Bill Winters, 170; Dennis Shaw, 180; Larry Walker, 165; and Delbert Brooks, 160.

Rated top prospects are Robert Shannon, 160, and James Duba, 165.

The Carrollton Coach reports only 35 are out and the Hawks will be weak in reserves. With some of the freshmen looking very good, the Hawk mentor looks for the team to be stronger next year.

Pittsfield

PITTSFIELD — Seventy-five candidates, the largest turnout in a number of years, have been undergoing extensive fundamentals under the watchful eye of veteran coach Glenn Smith, who has been at the Saukee post for 15 years.

Coach Smith has only three regulars back from last year's team that won two and lost seven. This season marks the end of the drought for the Saukees as they'll play three Midwest Conference games. Pittsfield hasn't played in a conference for a number of years—the last tenure being in the Illinois Valley loop.

Starting candidates now are Tom Brant, 130; Norris Richard, 150; Leland Wahlgren, 180; Bill Lowe, 145; Bob Schedel, 150; Glenn Brooks, 145; Jerry Jones, 180; Ken Higgins, 165, and Larry Biddle, 170.

Outstanding new prospects are Mike McGinnis, Jarry Harmison, Gary Curtis, Rich Reed and Tom Smith.

For the last 14 or 15 years, Pittsfield has always opened its season against Jacksonville but this year they open with Pleasant Hill at home. All home games start at 7:30 p.m.

The Schedule:

Sept. 18 Pleasant Hill
25 Winchester
Oct. 2 Christian Brothers
9 at I.S.D.
16 at Rushville
23 at Macomb
30 Beardstown
Nov. 6 at Mt. Sterling
13 at Jerseyville

White Hall

WHITE HALL—Coach Max McIntyre, who succeeds Bill McCarthy at the Maroon helm, has ten returning lettermen for the 1959 campaign. The 1958 aggregation placed third in the Valley standings with a 5-2-0 mark and had a 5-3-1 record for the season.

McIntyre rates Roodhouse and Carrollton as the strongest threats in the Valley conference.

The Schedule:

Sept. 18 at Northwestern
25 Roodhouse
Oct. 2 Hardin
9 Carrollton
16 at Greenfield
23 at Pleasant Hill
30 at Virginia
Nov. 6 Winchester
11 at Roodhouse

Rushville

RUSHVILLE—Stan Olson, new coach of the Rushville Rockets, has been working with 60 candidates for their forthcoming campaign in the Midwest and Spoon River Valley conferences. Last year, the Rockets compiled a 2-6-1 record.

Probable varsity starters will be selected from this group: Raymond Downs, 170; Charles Snodgrass, 165; Mickey Patterson, 173; Dennis Quillen, 200; David Ward, 145; Jim Prather, 244; Dean Paisley, 145; Terry Bigham, Dick Boyd, 143; Ronnie Ford, 168; Maynard Hulvey, 225; Ronny Rexroat, 180; Gerald Curry, 165, and Wayne Crum, 150.

Olson, a product of Galesburg, served as a coach at Milford last season.

59th National Amateur Field To Be Stronger

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo (AP)—A group of fine young golfers who are just beginning to make their presence felt in major amateur competition will help give the 59th National Amateur Golf Championship one of the strongest fields in recent years.

A strong, sometimes tricky course and unfamiliar playing conditions will add to the uncertainty always present in a tournament decided largely by quick 18-hole matches.

The 1959 championship opens Monday on the 6,939-yard par 70 course of the Broadmoor Golf Club with 200 contestants. They're the elite of the record number of 1,704 who originally entered. Six rounds of 18-hole matches on the first four days — two each Wednesday and Thursday — will bring it down to the four semi-finalists, who will battle it out over the 36-hole distance.

MEN SEE 'AIDA' BUT HEAR BALL GAME

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The San Francisco Opera Co. opened its 37th annual session Friday night with all its usual glitter and some undercover competition.

Football Briefs

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Sophomore quarterback Sandy Stephens frolicked and Minnesota's No. 1 and 2 football teams smothered the reserves Saturday but the net performance left coach Murray Warmath irritated.

Warmath frequently interrupted the intrasquad game to criticize his regulars for fumbles, inept ball-handling and pass receiving lapses.

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP) — Led by sophomore halfback Ethan Blackaby and junior fullback Bill Brown, Illinois' top three teams rolled up eight touchdowns Saturday in a scrimmage against the reserves.

Blackaby took a pass from Johnny Easterbrook for an 80-yard touchdown play and then grabbed an aerial from Paul Golaszewski for a 30-yard score.

Brown broke away on an 80-yard scoring run. Other touchdowns were scored by Marshall Starks, Joe Krakoski, Doug Wallace, Ed O'Bradovich and Dick Cast.

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP) — Northwestern's first and second teams ran up five touchdowns against the reserves Saturday before getting down to the more serious task of battling each other.

The first team was hard pressed to score a touchdown against the No. 2 outfit but managed to get across the goal once in a 30-minute workout. Quarterback Dick Thornton's pass to Elbert Kimbrough put the ball within range. Mike Stock battered through the line twice to put the ball on the three-yard line and Ron Burton went around end for the score.

Stock and Burton were the standouts for the day. Stock scored on a 25-yard run up the middle against the reserves and Burton dashed 65-yards to score one of his three touchdowns.

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) — The Notre Dame football team went through a scrimmage Saturday with many players being withheld from the drill because of a variety of injuries.

Meanwhile, the Irish ticket office announced that the Georgia Tech-Notre Dame game, to be played here Nov. 7, is a sellout. Other Irish home sellouts are with Northwestern, Oct. 24, and Navy, Oct. 31.

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — The cream of Wisconsin's football squad Saturday put on an awesome display of power as the Cardinals smothered the Whites 71-0 in a game type scrimmage.

The Cardinals, composed of the top 27 candidates, racked up ten touchdowns, most of them scored on the ground from less than 25 yards out.

Boston Edges Kansas City, 4-3

BOSTON (AP) — Boston rookie Jerry Casale survived a shaky seventh inning and defeated Kansas City 4-3 Saturday for the fourth straight time this season.

The big, raw-boned right-hander from Brooklyn drew support for his seven-hitter from Jackie Jensen's two run double in the first inning and two more tallies on Gary Geiger and Gene Stephens singles in the fifth.

Casale, 4-0 against the A's, registered his 11th American League triumph of 1959. The loss was the 14th in the past 15 starts for Kansas City.

CITY USES "STRAIGHT RIVER WATER"

For the first time since the pipeline was built, Jacksonville residents are drinking water "straight" from the Illinois river. A workman for the Caldwell Engineering company opens the valve in a newly installed 24 inch line direct to the pipeline. The pipeline formerly ran into Lake Mauvaisterre, then into the water plant. The river water now has a direct path to the treatment plant. A power shovel fills the large ditch in the background.

The water department can use either lake water or river water by just turning a valve. The large pump at Naples has been in operation since Friday morning. The river water is several degrees cooler than lake water.

To Begin Paving Of East State On Wednesday

Paving on portions of East State Street are scheduled to get under way sometime Wednesday, according to word received Saturday from construction officials. Weather permitting, the job is expected to be finished by next weekend.

Paving operations were originally scheduled earlier but were halted at the last minute by a leaking gas main. The street was reopened to traffic after the Illinois Power Company made an emergency request to delay construction while the leak was repaired.

All repairs have now been made, and paving plans will proceed as scheduled. The area will be closed to traffic late Sunday evening. Local officials have asked citizens to aid the workers by removing cars normally parked in the area. No parking will be allowed on the street.

A seal will be applied to the area Monday and Tuesday after a thorough cleaning, and paving will begin, barring other delays, on Wednesday. The blocked streets may prove a temporary inconvenience, but resurfacing of East State should provide an improvement well worth the trouble.

I.C. Begins New Year As Students Arrive Today

The 1959-60 college year begins today in Jacksonville with the move of 150 new students onto the campus of Illinois College. All college residence halls will be open at eight o'clock this morning to receive the new arrivals.

Joining the usual residence facilities will be Baxter Hall which normally provides recreation space, health dispensary and guest apartments in addition to its primary service as the college dining hall. Increased enrollment pressure has made it necessary for college authorities to convert some of the apartment area as a residence hall for women students. Ellis Hall, completed only in 1957 as a residence hall for women, is filled to capacity.

Mrs. Edeltrud Miller, new assistant professor of modern languages, will also serve the college as resident director for the women students in Baxter Hall.

In addition to getting settled in the residence halls, students will also start their college activities today. President and Mrs. L. Vernon Caine are holding open house in their home, Barnes House, for parents and new students from 2:30 to 4:00 p.m. At 5:30 p.m. the new arrivals are the guests of the Illinois College Student Forum at a picnic to be held in the rear of Russell House.

Faculty and trustees of the college join in the day's activities when they meet for dessert at Smith House, where new faculty members will be introduced.

Monday begins a round of examinations and orientation lectures. To climax the day, new students will be guests of the Fox Illinois Theatre on Monday evening to view the musical, "Private's Affair."

Students on Tuesday will continue their examinations, and then meet with their faculty advisers to plan their class work for the first semester.

All day Wednesday is devoted to registration for classes. In the evening in Barnes House, President and Mrs. Caine and the administrative officers of the college will receive all new and returning students.

Classes for the first semester of the 1959-60 college year will begin on Thursday morning following the opening convocation.

An all-student party on Friday night in the Student Union will serve as a formal closing to the opening week of the college's 131st year. However, as a possible bonus, Illinois College plays its first home football game on Saturday afternoon against Central College of Missouri. The game will serve as the inauguration of the new football field at the corner of Park and Edgehill—right on the Illinois College campus.

Mrs. Ray Cherry Named To Citizens Education Group

By Nancy Hainsfurther
(Winchester Correspondent)
(Telephone Pioneer 2-5520

Mrs. Ray Cherry, Jr. has been announced as a member of Region 10, Illinois Citizens Education Committee by Mrs. C. Leplie Kanatzar of Jacksonville who serves as regional chairman of the Committee. The region includes Scott, Morgan, Cass, Adams, Sangamon, Pike and Greene Counties.

The Illinois Citizens Education Committee was formed as a result of the Illinois Pre-White House Conferences, to develop a continuing public interest in education and a growing realization of its value. The Illinois group held its first meeting in 1956 and since that time has continued to grow with membership being lay citizens and educators as consultants.

With a few exceptions there are members from every county in the state. Maximum membership is around 200. The need for such an organization stems from increasing problems and demands facing education which are proof that administrators and school boards cannot achieve solutions without the intelligent interest and personal concern of citizens who will share the responsibility of decision.

The organization is composed of eight areas of interest; namely, fact finding and dissemination which collects and analyzes facts and opinions on all types of school problems; citizen interest, develops and executes programs for stimulating interest and participation of all citizens in educational activities of the local community and state; organization and finance, dealing with the efficient and economical organization of schools, the effect of recent legislation on organization and financing and a comparative study of state sources and methods of distribution of school revenue.

Public expectations and evaluations, prepares materials for use by citizens in evaluating their schools; school and college personnel, dealing with all aspects of attracting and holding competent teaching personnel; education beyond high school which outlines the increasing demands and problems being made upon colleges, universities and other post-high school institutions; information available to communities planning new schools and planning educational programs committee which considers arrangements for citizens to plan, study and evaluate curricula.

Mrs. Cherry was in Urbana on Friday, Sept. 10 to attend the fall meeting of the I.C.E.C. held at the university at which time she attended sessions concerning the various fields and talked with citizens of other communities concerning problems in all areas.

Soybean Field Day Monday Afternoon

A field meeting at the Morgan county soybean variety plots will start Monday afternoon at 1:30 on the C. D. Ransdell, Jr., farm one mile south of Rees Station, in township 14-9.

John Pendleton, extension specialist in crops from the University of Illinois, will be on hand to lend a hand to farm adviser George Trull during the meeting.

Arrangements for the field day are under the direction of George Trull and assistant farm adviser Robert Hayward, Jr.

Anyone interested in soybeans is invited to attend. There is no charge and someone will be on duty all afternoon to discuss the various varieties and answer questions concerning soybeans.

Nine varieties of soybeans are growing side by side in the 1959 plots, Mr. Ransdell is cooperating with the University of Illinois in making these variety tests possible. The nine varieties which are on the test this year are: Lindarin, Harosoy, Hawkeye, Harosoy and Hawkeye (a mixture), Lincoln, Adams, Ford, Shelby and Clark.

The plot is located along a main-traveled road and the varieties are marked so that anyone can stop at any time to observe them.

This Week.. at Dixon Springs

Cattle Sale Set for October 1

Getting ready for the cattle sale on Thursday, October 1, is one of the big orders of the day. By August 31, over 3,000 head of calves and yearlings had been consigned to the Egyptian Livestock Association's annual feeder cattle sale. Since 1950 this sale has enjoyed progressive growth, the previous high running around 2,500 head. To take care of the increased consignment this year, a new row of holding pens is being built.

Back in 1950 cattle growers in the Dixon Springs area—Pope-Hardin and Johnson counties—got together and decided to sell their feeder cattle cooperatively in well-sorted lots. That year consignments were made from surrounding counties to the tune of about 400 head. So the sale has grown tremendously in numbers and also in quality of animals offered. Cattle feeders can depend on getting healthy, farm-fresh cattle, without horns, free of stags and grading good or better.

Silage-Making Under Way

Corn on the Morse place, near Lake Glendale, is well into the dented stage, running about 30 percent dry matter. The silage-making crew started to work there about September 1, hauling to the trench silo at the sheep barns.

The trench at the sheep barns is concreted—both sidewalls and floor—and will hold about 400 tons. This sounds like a lot of silage, but the nearly 1,000 sheep will leave a gaping hole, if not a completely empty trench, come spring. As a general rule, silage-feeding will start about mid- December and continue until early April, about 100 to 120 days.

Chopped corn forage is being hauled from the field in trucks with dump beds. The trucks are backed to the edge of the trench and dumped. One man on a tractor works in the trench continuously while the silo is being filled.

With the tractor scoop, the silo man spreads and then drives over the forage, continuously packing to expel all air that could cause spoilage. As the silo is filled—a section at a time—and rounded off, plastic is unrolled to cover and protect the surface from both air and rain.

Wintering Value

Corn from the Morse place will make about 10 tons of silage an acre. This is enough to furnish most of the winter feed for about 35 ewes. This acre of corn silage plus about 4 tons of legume hay and 1½ tons of grain will do the job for a farm flock of about 35 ewes.

Plan Two-Day Junior Fair At Scott In 1960

WINCHESTER—The 4-H Show and Junior Fair Board, at a recent meeting, decided to conduct a two-day show next year. Reports from each department were given with emphasis on what can be improved for next year. The Fair board expressed thanks to all the people that have contributed financially or with voluntary labor to make the permanent facilities possible in Scott county.

The fair board then decided to paint the large livestock building and show ring. Ground rods were also put on by Willet Pierce and his vocational agriculture class and Dale Hewitt. The painters are: George Lashmett, George Lawson, Virgil Vortman, Bob Coffman, Gail Hurrelbrink and Everett Howell.

From now through early fall, mycotic stomatitis may develop in cattle. Cattle with this infection have patchy erosions on their tongues, lips and cheeks. Treatment usually consists of painting the lesions with a non-irritating local antiseptic.

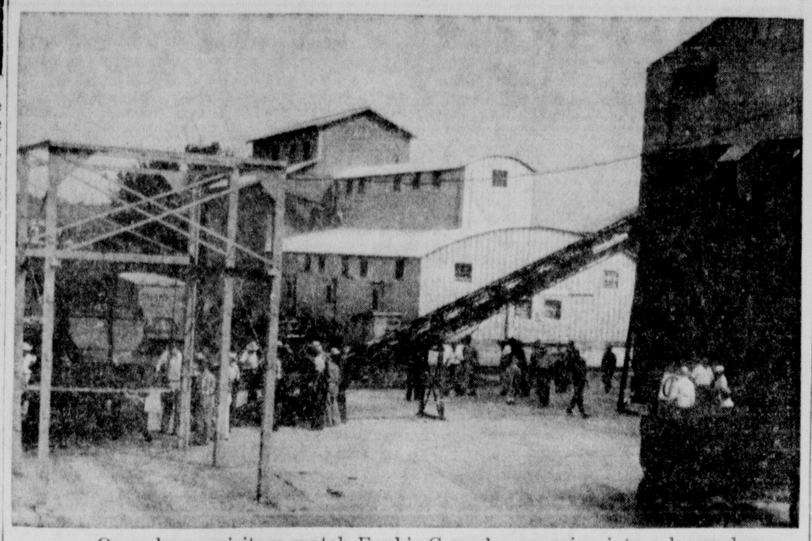
OPEN HOUSE AT COLUMBIANA



Open house visitors watch Funk's G seed corn going into a large dryer, located on Route 108 west of Eldred. The dryer has a capacity of 20,000 bushels of ear corn.

Jake Shelton explains the production aspects of hybrid seed corn to visitors on the company farms. At right, the research field laboratory—this is where new hybrids are developed for the Columbiana program.

Chow time for visitors is provided in a pecan grove at the Columbiana farms.

Columbiana Farms Host To Dealers, Guests At Eldred

The Columbiana Seed Company, Eldred, completed a three-week open house Saturday, registering more than 1500 guests visiting the farm and hybrid seed corn facilities. The guests included dealers from North and South Carolina, Kentucky, Tennessee and Missouri. Besides the out-of-state guests, local dealers and farmers from Illinois were also present during the last part of August.

4,000 Acre Farm

Columbiana Farm consists of 4,000 acres of rich Illinois bottom land where they have approximately 250 head of Hampshire sows and raise about 3,500 head of pigs each year. In addition to the hog operations, they market about 2,000 head of cattle annually at the St. Louis terminal.

Produce Seed Corn

The company's main operation is the production and distribution of Funk's G hybrid seed corn. This year they have approximately 14,200 acres of seed production in Greene and surrounding counties.

Columbiana is part of the International Funk's G Hybrid Organization that have operations in Canada, Italy, Spain, Brazil, Argentina and Mexico, in addition to 18 units in the United States. Columbiana has the distinction of being the largest sales unit in the International Funk's G organization.

In Greene county, the company's product rates high among seed corn brands used by farmers.

Extensive Operation

The guests visited the farm and hybrid seed corn facilities which include 27 drying plants with a capacity of 280,000 bushels of ear corn at one fill and of processing plants with over one-half-million bushels of capacity annually.

They also visited the Research laboratory consisting of 30 acres, regarded by many as the largest of 12 scattered across North America. This is operated by Funk Brothers seed company, Bloomington. A number of high school teachers work as supervisors in the laboratory during the summer months.

Columbiana Seed Company extends a cordial welcome to any farm for a first-hand tour.

Little Value Attached To Pre-Harvest Crop Drying

No 'Sure Cure' Yet For Dutch Elm Disease

WINCHESTER — Early Labor Day morning Dale A. Hewitt, Scott county farm adviser, was routed out of a deep sleep by two gentlemen who explained they had a "sure cure" for Dutch Elm disease affecting the American Elms. These tree surgeons said they were from Jacksonville and were trying to contract spraying of each elm tree as they went from door to door.

Mr. Boewe plant pathologist located at the Natural History Survey building, University of Illinois, has talked with Hewitt about this subject many times. Mr. Boewe stated this summer, during a visit to Winchester, that the Dutch Elm disease was too far advanced in Scott county to benefit in an all-out spraying program.

The University of Illinois at Urbana has had such a program along with Urbana and Champaign. The entire tree was sprayed with all dead limbs and bark of American Elms being burned. During the last two or three years, locust and other shade trees have been used to replace the elms.

Mr. Hewitt will be glad to furnish additional information on Dutch Elm disease control to Scott residents who stop at his office.

Near the end of the growing season there is frequently some interest in the use of chemicals for hastening the field drying of crops.

Illinois tests indicate that the most important reason for using desiccants in our fall-maturing crops is to dry up green weeds that would otherwise not die until frost. Research has shown that when a preharvest drying chemical is applied before the crop has reached its maximum dry weight (physiological maturity), yield and quality are reduced, often quite severely.

Preharvest chemical drying has been tried on soybeans, corn, grain sorghum and legumes. The conclusion from this research has been that this practice has little practical value, for the most part, in Illinois.

Preharvest spraying of soybeans might be worthwhile considering the presence of a rank growth of green weeds would make harvesting difficult. But such treatment should not be used on soybeans until after the leaves and pods turn yellow and the lower leaves start to drop.

Desiccants or defoliants is not to be confused with the use of 2, 4-D which is a weed killer.

Plan Area Hog Tour For Greene Farmers

The northwestern Lincoln Area Farm Bureau Farm Management service and the farm advisers of Scott, Greene, Jersey and Calhoun counties are sponsoring a hog tour Monday, September 14. The tour will be held on the Marion Hildebrant and Paul Daum farms, both located near Carrollton, Ill. It will contrast a pasture hog raising program and a confinement system.

Hildebrant's farm consists of approximately 255 tillable acres, 17 of which are devoted to hog pasture each year. Present volume of hogs is 85 litters per year. They are farrowed on pasture in summer and in central housing and hog crates in the winter. Hogs are fed on pasture.

Daum's farm has approximately 240 tillable acres. He presently farrows 65 litters of hogs using central farrowing in winter and pasture farrowing in summer. Market hogs are fed out on a confinement floor recently constructed. Liquid manure is collected and spread on the farm.

This tour is open to the general public. It will begin at 1 p.m. on the Marion Hildebrant farm located just ¾ mile north of Carrollton on route Alt. 67. Watch for tour signs.

Both farms have been successful with an efficient swine operation and both men keep Farm Bureau Farm Management records and have a comprehensive knowledge of cost figures, feed margins and other facts which enter into a swine feeding program.

FARMER'S SHARE OF CONSUMER'S DOLLAR

We are often asked about "the farmer's share of the consumer's dollar." Since there is so much misunderstanding about this subject, we will give some basic facts about it.

The U. S. Department of Agriculture publishes widely quoted—and misquoted and misused—figures on (1) the amount the consumer spends for food as a percentage of disposable income and (2) the farmer's share of the dollar the consumer spends for food.

During most of the year or so, consumers have spent about 21 percent of their total disposable incomes for food. Disposable income means what's left after income taxes are paid.

This 21 percent is an over-all figure. It includes the richest and the poorest—the nation as a whole. It is not a "typical family" figure.

According to the U. S. Department of Labor, the typical working man's family spends 30 to 35 percent of its income for food.

Consumers spend a smaller share of their incomes for food now than they did before World War II but, more important, they get more and better food now than they did 20 years ago. The same kinds and amounts of foods that were purchased 20 years ago for 23 percent of disposable income would now take only 16 percent. As has been said many times, no other people in the world get so much for so little.

The farmer's share of the dollar the consumer spends for food has ranged around 40 percent during the past four years. For the past 12 months it has been very close to 39 percent.

The farmer's share of the consumer's food dollar has shrunk from 52 percent in 1946 to the 39 percent of recent months. But 1946 was an abnormal year because of rapid inflation.

Perhaps there are no really "normal" years, but back in prewar 1935-39 the farmer's share of consumer's expenditures for food was 40 percent. Thus the farmer's share of the dollar spent for food is nearly the same as it was 20 years ago.

A longer comparison will also be of interest and may help us in guessing about future prospects. In 1915, before the United States became involved in World War I, the farmer's share of the consumer's food dollar was 44 percent. Wartime inflation lifted his share to 51 percent in 1918. But by 1921 it had shrunk to 40 percent, and it varied between 40 and 42 percent during the 1920's. During 1932 and 1933, the worst years of the Great Depression, it shriveled to only 32 percent.

From these facts it appears that the farmer's share of the consumer's food dollar will hold near or slightly below 40 percent until a major recession or strong inflation comes along.

BYE-BYE BADGER!

Darrell Hart and Raymond Little of Oxville were hunting squirrels about 7 o'clock Thursday morning when they spied a badger in the timber.

The badger weighed 40 pounds and was 30 inches long. One was reported killed about 5 years ago in that vicinity—2 miles east of Oxville.

Shoo-Fly Date October 4-7

CARROLLTON—The population of Hessian Fly has increased during 1959 to a point where damage can be severe, according to John H. Bicket, Greene county farm adviser. The free fly date also coincides with the average date of seeding wheat for the highest yields. The date for Greene county is October 4-7.

There is some confusion concerning Hessian Fly. If you seed your wheat after the free fly date and your neighbors seed their wheat prior to this, both fields can be infested with the spring brood population buildup.

The best way to stop hens from laying eggs on the floor is to prevent them from starting.

Bulk AGRICO cuts fertilizer costs and saves you work

SAVE money and the labor of handling heavy fertilizer bags this season by buying AGRICO in economical bulk form. If you apply the fertilizer yourself, bulk AGRICO is easier and faster to handle from start to finish. Or if you use bulk spreader service, you can have your fields topdressed without interrupting your regular work schedule.

Either way, you get the same high quality AGRICO fertilizer with the extra crop-feeding efficiency as sold in bags. But you save the cost of bagging and extra handling.

Just bring your truck or wagon to the nearest Agrico plant or warehouse where your order will be loaded quickly and efficiently. Then drive right into the field and shovel the fertilizer directly into your drill, planter or spreader. There is less spilling and waste; there are no bags to dispose of after planting.

If you prefer bulk spreader service, the cost of having your AGRICO spread in bulk is about the same as fertilizer delivered to your farm in bags. The important thing is your saving of time, labor and the expense of spreading it yourself.

Bring in your truck today and pick up a load of bulk AGRICO. Or call your nearby Agrico agent and arrange for convenient bulk spreader service. He'll see that you get prompt service and that the application is even and accurate, too.

Bulk AGRICO fertilizer is loaded quickly into your truck or wagon.

Planting operation is speeded with no fertilizer bags to handle.

Bulk spreader truck holds enough fertilizer for your entire field.

A Matter Of Conscience

Morgan county's United Fund goal has been set at $80,000 this year. That amount will not only provide full allocations for the ten agencies in 1959, but will make up the 1958 goal which fell a few thousand dollars short.

Several hundred men and women, conscious of their obligations as citizens, are organizing for the campaign which is now in early stages. During the annual drive thousands of other citizens will be asked to contribute to agencies which make Morgan county a better place in which to live.

Citizens conscious of moral obligations to their city and county help develop a community conscience. This intangible element lifts cities and communities from the commonplace, making them superior areas in which to live.

Community conscience is a trademark of quality which guarantees wholesome civic life for growing boys and girls, a helping hand for the unfortunate.

Jacksonville on many occasions has demonstrated responsive community conscience. It is when a concerted effort is needed to push an important project to completion that this intangible force keeps volunteer workers active and encourages citizens to contribute liberally.

We believe that community conscience will guarantee another year of full scale service for Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Jacksonville Junior Police, Y.M.C.A., Salvation Army, C.Y.O., American Red Cross, National Fund For Medical Research, U.S.O., and Travelers Aid.

Without the fine services of these agencies it would be easy for communities to become calloused to the needs of youth, the sick, and unfortunate.

Water On The Brain

For a very long time the scientists have been telling us that life began in the sea, and that eons passed before it emerged from the water and became adapted to the land.

Now a couple of scientists are challenging that theory. They think life actually may have gotten started ashore.

One says the likely place was the mud of tidal river estuaries. The other believes life was born in shallow fresh water pools.

If this notion takes hold and becomes widely accepted, it may clear up a lot of things.

It may explain, for instance, why man keeps heading for the beach to stick his toes in the shallow stuff.

It isn't that he's a natural born loafer who likes to stretch out in the sun and feel the cool waters run over him. He's simply under some kind of compulsion to return to his ancestral home.

In Hollywood

By JAMES BACON
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The movies' two highest paid feminine stars, of the moment, are the central figures of the two biggest movie scandals of the decade.

And in both cases, the big jump in income followed the front page headlines. The stars, of course, are Lana Turner and Elizabeth Taylor.

Miss Turner's first picture after her teen-age daughter fatally stabbed the actress' underworld sweetheart, Johnny Stompanato, was "Imitation of Life." For it, she was offered the best deal of her career—50 per cent of the profits.

Producer Ross Hunter estimates that the actress' cut of the box-office click, Universal-International's biggest of the year, already is two million dollars.

"And that's minimum," says Hunter. "Heaven knows how much higher it may go."

Miss Taylor, since the triangle headlines with Eddie Fisher and Debbie Reynolds, has become the only million dollar salary actress in the business. Marlon Brando is the only other star with a million dollar price tag on his services.

It was not long after the headlines that Miss Taylor's agent asked and received $750,000 plus 10 per cent of the gross for her appearing in "Suddenly, Last Summer" and "Two for the See Saw."

The million dollar tag—also with 10 per cent of the gross—was reported this week by Producer Walter Wanger who wanted her for his "Cleopatra."

There's no doubt that she will get the big salary. An informal survey of studio bigwigs, to a man, predicted that she would.

One studio topper, asking anonymity, explained that scripts, good or bad, alone can make or break a talented performer—not headlines.

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — When Danny Thomas' new shows come on this fall, look close! He's got a new teen-age daughter.

Sherry Jackson, Danny's TV daughter who grew up with the series, no longer is in the famous family. A spokesman for Thomas says that Sherry wanted to concentrate on her education and other acting.

In her place will be Penney Parker, a New York actress whose mother gave her a trip to Hollywood this summer for a graduation present.

While here, she auditioned for the Thomas show and won out over hundreds of other teen-age girls. She hasn't returned home since.

When Thomas switched wives a few years ago, script writers went to elaborate lengths to make Danny a widower who falls for a young and attractive widow, Marjorie Lord. She's still playing his wife.

"We're not explaining the new daughter," says Thomas. "Just a routine change of casting."

Thomas is constantly amazed by the impact of television. Before his top-rated series, he was one of the nation's top night club comedians and had appeared in movies, television and other media as Danny Thomas.

In his CBS-TV series, he portrays a night club entertainer named Danny Williams. On a recent 33-day tour for his pet project, the St. Jude Hospital in Memphis, Tenn., he was recognized every place he went.

"But," says Danny, "nine out of ten people—in stores, gas stations or on the street—would ask me: 'Aren't you Danny Williams?'"

Communication

Editor, Journal Courier:

One can but doubt the wisdom of free speech and press on the appearance of such a page as yesterday's daily paper titled "Please, President Eisenhower, Don't:"

It can matter very little whatever happens in spite of, or because of Mr. Khrushchev's visit, if there are many people (organized or otherwise) who are antagonistic enough (against the head of OUR government) to let themselves become involved in such a questionable movement! I would label it propaganda (red style) and Mr. K. will no doubt love it—perhaps he might want to contact its originators as surely "his" kind of people!

I was not impressed by Styles Bridges' name, certainly—nor by his statement! The other names were strangers to me. I would like to see a published list of ones in our own community subscribing to the ideas presented by this so-called committee!

I have filled in the coupon with ten names — all Mr. Screwball, U.S.A., and shall send it along to the White House with a note of personal wishes and prayers for sowing of seed toward (even a little thread) of success in solving existing problems confronting our country and Russia.

Controversial Issues Are Still Big Items for U.N.

BY PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON — (NEA)—Biggest question before the United Nation's General Assembly's 14th session which opens in New York Sept. 15, is whether there will be any breakthroughs on controversial issues it has been considering for some years. It has a preliminary agenda of 68 items. Most are unsettled holdovers from previous sessions.

Barring some new development, it does not appear that the recent crises along the India-Red China frontier and Viet-Nam will come before the General Assembly.

One year ago Quemoy and Matsu, Iraq and Lebanon were the trouble spots. Now Communist pressure has shifted.

Laos is the headliner this year.

A Laotian government representative has been in consultation with U.N. Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold in New York. Laos officials have said they would ask the U.N. for troops to repel Communist invaders.

Prime Minister Nehru has indicated that India will not take its own dispute with Red China, nor present the Tibetan protest against Red China to the United Nations.

In spite of these clashes, India still backs Red China's admission to the United Nations. Krishna Menon has again been designated India's chief to the U.N.

ALGERIA IS AMONG THE HOTTEST ITEMS for U.N. debate this year. Afro-Asian nations came within one vote of getting this question on the agenda last year. The United States abstained on that vote, making the French unhappy.

Representatives of nine Arab countries called on U.S. Secretary of State Christian A. Herter recently to ask for his support. At the conference of African nations in Monrovia, Liberia, this summer, there was unanimous backing for Algerian independence. Last year France refused to take part in U.N. debate on Algeria. The French position this year has not been indicated by President De Gaulle.

Sparks will fly on the Hungarian issue which is again on the U.N. agenda although U.N. observer Sir Leslie Munro of Australia has been denied admission to Hungary.

ONE OF THE MOST CONTROVERSIAL QUESTIONS the U.N. will have to decide is continuance of aid to Palestine refugees in Arab countries. Authorization for this relief expires June 30, 1960, having run 10 years. The cost of resettling the refugees has been estimated at 1.5 billion dollars. There are no prospects for liquidating the program.

Withdrawal of the emergency force of 5,000 men from seven countries who now patrol the Isreaeli borders at a U.N. cost of 19 million dollars a year is also unlikely. Similarly, no new developments or solutions are expected in the Korean, South West Africa and other African disputes.

What the General Assembly does about disarmament is still very much up in the air. Technical discussions on prevention of surprise attack and inspection of nuclear weapons intsallations have been suspended in Geneva until mid-October.

These talks were not conducted under U.N. auspices, but by a committee of five Communist and five non-Communist countries. If the major powers agree to continue work on this basis, the General Assembly could give its blessing and keep out of it.

But there will be some discussion of an Irish proposal to confine nuclear weapons development to the U.S., U.K. and U.S.S.R. This will be opposed by France, which wants to develop and test its own weapons in the Sahara. Morocco has asked that the French test be stopped.

THE 18-MEMBER U.N. COMMITTEE ON PEACEFUL development of outer space met last summer and will report to the Assembly. But Communist countries boycotted this group as they did not consider it representative. So its future is uncertain, unless the Russians change their policy.

Dr. Victor Andres Belaunde, former Peruvian foreign minister and its long-time representative at the U.N., is considered most likely to be elected as new president.

The Communist bloc has not put forward a candidate. But Czechoslovakia has proposed equitable geographical representation in the election of a U.N. president, which up to now has never been an eastern European.

Canada, Japan and Panama retire from Security Council membership this year. Poland has announced its candidacy as one replacement. The Greeks may have another. Asian countries have not decided on their choice. But Latin-American countries will nominate Ecuador.

The World Today

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — This is the kind of story you can paste in a dresser drawer and look at 10 years from now to see who was right: President Eisenhower or Sen. William Fulbright, Arkansas Democrat?

The TV talk Eisenhower made to the nation Thursday night on his discussions next week with Premier Nikita Khrushchev came one day after Fulbright made a stinging attack on him. Fulbright is chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

There wasn't any real news in the President's talk: He's going to confer with Khrushchev on world problems. He talked mostly in generalities, and what he said had been reported before.

He could not be expected, of course, to show his hand if he is holding any cards to use on Khrushchev. He knows the whole Western world, now more than ever, is looking to him for leadership.

But it was the quality of that leadership which Fulbright questioned, even though Eisenhower in 1959 has shown an increasingly active leadership at home and abroad.

Fulbright, in a speech Wednesday, accused Eisenhower of timidity. Fulbright's statements can be summed up this way:

1. He thinks this country is doing far less than it should—in the way of work and greater sacrifices—to achieve its maximum strength in dealing with the Soviet Union and the cold war.

2. He said Eisenhower has been feeding the nation tranquilizing pills instead of using the full power of his office and prestige to get the maximum effort from Congress and the people.

The senator complained "it is nonsense to say we cannot afford" to do anything this country wants to do or should do. Here are some of the things Fulbright thinks need doing:

Spend a great deal on public school education; arm ourselves better; put foreign development loans on a long-term basis. He cited the steel strike as an example of wasted American resources and manpower.

He said that if this country undertook to do all the things he thinks are necessary the "Kremlin would be a great deal more impressed than it is likely to be by evidence of our determination to balance the budget."

Eisenhower himself, in private talks, has mentioned the need for greater American work to compete with the Soviets whose long hours and national dedication have impressed him. But he hasn't called publicly for it.

Fulbright's complaint is that Eisenhower doesn't have enough confidence in the American people's willingness to work and sacrifice.

There is no doubt that Eisenhower, in his desire to keep down spending, has deliberately refrained from calling on Congress or the people for anything approaching all-out effort in work, spending, taxes, or production.

Fulbright particularly complained that Eisenhower has failed to use his prestige to get from Congress "the full arsenal of means he needs if America's purposes are to be successfully advanced around the world."

But Fulbright in turn failed to complain about his own Democrats in Congress where they overwhelmingly outnumber the Republicans and could have asserted leadership if they didn't think Eisenhower was providing it.

Instead, they followed the President meekly, despite occasional bleating that he wasn't thinking in big enough or broad enough terms.

To sum up for future reference: Eisenhower insists he knows what he's doing and the programs he asked for are sufficient in the cold war duel which will get tougher as the Soviet Union gets increasingly stronger, militarily and economically.

Fulbright says he's doing far less than enough.

When Betsy Ross made the first American flag, it was unfurled for the first time at the Battle of Brandywine, Pa., on Sept. 11, 1777.

matter of FACT

The Sahara Desert of northern Africa is not entirely arid. There are a few streams and some springs with oases of considerable size. Making Out a Will Can Save Much Unnecessary Hardship

BY MARIE DAERR

Being superstitious about making your will is as sensible as being afraid to walk under a ladder or cringing when a black kitten trots across the sidewlk in front of you.

Yet a bank official told me that in the big metropolitan county in which he works, one out of 10 property owners dies without making a will. By neglecting this important job, the eternal procrastinator causes all kinds of unnecessary hardships for the people he wants most to protect.

"Make a will and look it over at least once every three years," this official said. "New Year's Day or a birthday is a good time to do this review.

"Tax laws change and you will want to take advantage of any breaks. Family relationships change, too.

"A marriage or a new grandchild may mean that you will want to change your will."

Your will needn't be a lengthy one to "hold water." Calvin Coolidge, who never wanted a syllable, did his in 26 words. Others have taken 25 pages to list their possessions.

"Some people use the excuse that they don't have enough property to bother about drawing up a will," the bank official said. "If they sit down and itemize what they own, they are likely to find they have a surprising amount of possessions.

"With a will, they are making certain that the items they treasure go to the people of their choice. These articles may be a family painting of sentimental value, a collection of books, a piano—items which will have special meaning to a son, a daughter, a dear friend."

When there is no will, the state takes over. Each state has its own laws, written to fit the "average" case about distributing property according to the number and the relationship of surviving relatives. They don't take into accord the wishes of the deceased and the promises he made, but neglected to write down in proper form.

When these laws take effect, the court appoints an administrator, maybe some one the deceased would not have chosen.

"Make your will as soon as you reach the age of majority, which varies from state to state," advises this bank official. "Many people are afraid to tackle the matter of a will, because they are afraid the attorney's fee will be out of reason.

"A simple will should cost about $20 to $50. Don't hesitate to ask a lawyer what his fee would be. And, if you don't know a lawyer, ask your local bar association to recommend one or more."

Q—I am 63. Can I collect on my husband's Social Security before he retires or before he is 65? Can I draw Social Security when I have paid in for four years?—Mrs. L. M. L.

A—Except in the case of disability payments, you can not collect Social Security until your husband begins collecting at age 65. But you need be only 62 to be eligible for a reduced benefit when he becomes eligible for Social Security. As a working woman, you are eligible for a reduced benefit at age 62, if you have enough quarters. Assuming you reached 62 in 1958, you would need either 14 or 15 quarters, depending on your birthday date. Inasmuch as four years' work would give you 16, you meet requirements.

Q—Must I pay income tax on Social Security?—R. F.

A—No.

WEEKLY BIBLE COMMENT

Bible Democracy

BY WILLIAM E. GILROY, D.D.

In the Bible, for those who will delve into its nature and meaning, is a pattern of democracy that seems, to me, to stand out above all else in historic aspirations toward social organization and government. The ideal of democracy has its illustration in the history of Israel—an ideal not always achieved. That is the Old Testament aspect, and in the New Testament, Saint Paul states the principles of democracy, simply and clearly.

Paul, of course, stated them for the small Christian community and for people with whom he had close contact. But they apply in the larger aspect of society which will never find a real democracy achieved until these principles are recognized and established.

The Pauline principles stress freedom and responsibility. In an ideal society, every man must bear his own burden. Paul insisted on this. For the shirkers in the newly founded churches, he laid down the stern warning that if a man did not work neither should he eat.

But the shrewd-minded Apostle was well aware that there is no such thing as human equality. He knew that some are as weak as others are strong. So he laid down the principle that the strong must help the weak.

Paul's principles of democracy were not necessarily a part of his new-found Christian faith, but were a part of his Jewish heritage.

I do not know how much of it was an ideal, or how much was actually achieved, but I doubt whether anywhere in history has there been such concern for the whole community, and to protect the individual. A man who had the misfortune to kill another accidentally could find refuge in the Cities of Refuge. A debtor could not be reduced to slavery. In various ways the individual was protected, but at the same time the individual was strongly restricted by hygienic and other measures that protected the community against unsocial action.

It made for strong tribal government, but the sad aspect of it was that it realated only to Israel. It did not become world-wide and what elements of it may be found in Jewish survival in the modern State of Israel have had little effort upon the surrounding Arab world.

But the point is that we might look to the Bible more and more for guidance in democracy as we face the problems of today. For the chief problem of good government is the same as of old—achieving and protecting the welfare of all.

There is as much authority in families today as ever—only now the kids exercise it.

Serve-Yourself Breakfasts Prevent the Morning Rush

BY GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Food and Markets Editor

Breakfast for five children and a husband when all must be out of the house by 8:15 is a family problem. Mrs. Marrine Terpstras of Kirkwood, Mo., told us how she manages it.

Her husband leaves before seven, and prepares his fruit juice, cereal with milk, toast and coffee. Often he prepares hot cereal for the rest of the family.

Mrs. Terpstras sets out the makings of breakfast for her children—fruit or fruit juice, hot or ready-to-eat cereal, and bread for toast.

"My chief responsibility," she said, "is to see that none of the children go off to school without a nutritionally adequate breakfast. It's much easier since we adopted the serve yourself method."

Sunday breakfast, shared together, has muffins or coffee cake, eggs and breakfast meats added. Her ready-mix coffee cake is topped with crushed cereal, butter, brown sugar and cinnamon.

A favorite Sunday supper dish is tamale pie.

Tamale Pie
(Yield: 8 servings)

Filling: Two pounds ground beef, 3 tablespoons fat, 1 cup coarsely chopped onion, 1 clove garlic, minced; 2 cups canned tomatoes, updrained; 1 6-ounce can (2/3 cup) tomato paste, 3/4 cup diced celery, 1 1/2 cups canned whole kernel corn, drained; 1 tablespoon salt, 1/4 teaspoon pepper, 2 dashes tabasco sauce (optional), 1/2 teaspoon sugar, 4 teaspoons chili powder (or to taste).

Crust: One and one-half cups sifted all-purpose flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder, 1 1/2 teaspoons salt, 2 teaspoons sugar, 1 3/4 sups hot whole-wheat cereal, instant or regular, uncooked; 1 egg, beaten; 1 cup milk, 2/3 cup melted fat.

Brown meat lightly in hot fat. Add remaining filling ingredients and cover. Simmer gently 30 minutes. Combine and sift flour, baking powder, salt and sugar into mixing bowl. Stir in uncooked hot whole-wheat cereal. Combine liquids and blend into dry ingredients stirring just until all ingredients are moistened. Let stand five minutes. Save 2/3 cup of mixture for top. Spread remaining mix evenly over bottom and sides of a greased shallow 2-quart baking dish bringing crust up onto edge of dish to form a high rim. Pour hot filling into crust and top with spoonfuls of crust mixture. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) until done, 30 to 35 minutes.

Note: Oblong baker—11 3/4x7 1/2-x1 3/4 inches. Round flat baker—10x1 1/2 inches. Casserole—8 1/4x2 3/4 inches.

MONDAY'S DINNER: Tamale pie, steamed rice, green beans, crusty bread, butter or margarine, radishes, cucumber sticks, sliced peaches, cup cakes, coffee, tea, milk.

They'll Do It Every Time

You Can Convince Yourself You're Not Much—But Why?

Once a woman makes up her own mind that she isn't attractive, it's not hard for her to convince the rest of the world that she's right.

For one thing, she has an apologetic air that says louder than words, "I'm really not much—but if I keep real still maybe nobody will notice."

Then, too, the belief that she can't compete against other women keeps her from walking straight and tall and proud, makes her enter rooms timidly, and makes her too shy to express her own opinions.

Somehow or other she gets the idea that if she never makes any pretense at being good at anything, she won't be criticized. So she runs herself down constantly. "I don't know how I could have been so stupid," she says. And she is always making other self-depreciating remarks such as "clumsy me" and "an old maid like me" and so on.

It never occurs to her that she can build other people up without tearing herself down in contrast. She can't praise another's talents without pointing out that she has none herself.

When she does excel at something, she denies it. Even those who want to give her credit for an accomplishment find it hard going. She can't accept any compliment without protest.

Yes, it's easy for a woman who is convinced she hasn't much to offer to prove she's right. But why can't she see that if she would only think well of herself others would be just as ready to accept this valuation.

No Boom Ahead on Farm, But Lots of Surplus

By RAY CROMLEY
NEA Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA)—Despite the industrial upswing, there's no boom in store this fall down on the farm.

Except in surpluses.

Farm income will be down eight per cent this fall, economists say. Prices for farm products will continue to slide. Prices for the things the farmer will buy—labor, machinery, transportation, supplies—will be up.

Overproduction of cattle, hogs and a wide range of other commodities — will hold prices for many farm products down perhaps all next year.

The new surpluses this fall will pump another billion to a billion and a half dollars into the already-overloaded surplus warehouses. This will boost surplus stocks over the 10 billion dollar mark.

Agriculture Department specialists predict that if the weather is just right these new surpluses will cost the taxpayer close to two billion dollars this season.

These surplus payments by the government worry the economists. "They'll give a boost to this creeping inflation everyone is talking about," says one.

Another puts it more bluntly, says the subsidy surplus program is getting completely out of hand. "And it's going to get so much worse in the next few years nobody will be able to do anything about handling the sheer volume," he adds. "Every conceivable storage idea will be exhausted."

The worsening state of affairs on the farm means these things:

● There'll be increasing migration from the farms this fall and winter. Experts estimate this movement will be to the tune of around 50,000 men, women and children a month. Many of these folks won't actually leave for the cities. They'll just retire. Or a young man will go off to college and not come back.

● There'll be a more rapid step up of mechanization on the farms to cut labor costs. Farmers will buy machinery at a faster clip in the next six to 12 months. Farm production will move up at the rate of half of one per cent a month this fall and next spring. That's at the rate of six per cent a year, double the rate of increase in U.S. industry. This new efficiency will create more surplus next year.

● More small farms will be absorbed—and faster. Best guess here is that farms will thus disappear at the speed of 7,000 a month this fall and winter.

● More small farmers are going to move into contract farming this fall. They'll produce for one customer, who may furnish the supplies, the necessary equipment and financing.

To top it all, the Agriculture Department's stepped-up program of research on more efficient production of crops is expected to bear some striking new fruit this fall and winter. It's understood there'll be a series of new plant varieties and new techniques announced early next year that should boost production — and surpluses — even more rapidly in the next few years.

It's the size of the crops this year that's at the bottom of the farmer's problems.

This year's corn crop is expected to be 10 per cent more than last year's and a whopping 28 per cent above the average for the past 10 years.

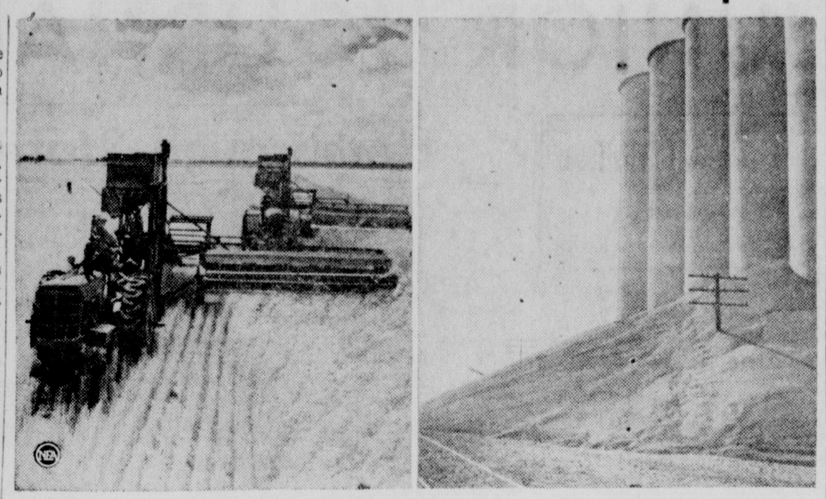
Cotton is expected to be 29 per cent above last year—six per cent above the average.

The oversupply of wheat is expected to be well over 100 million bushels.

Hay is expecteid to be 2 per cent above the average, soy beans 63 per cent, late summer potatoes 2 per cent, fall potatoes 11 per cent, peaches 18 per cent, apples 9 per cent.

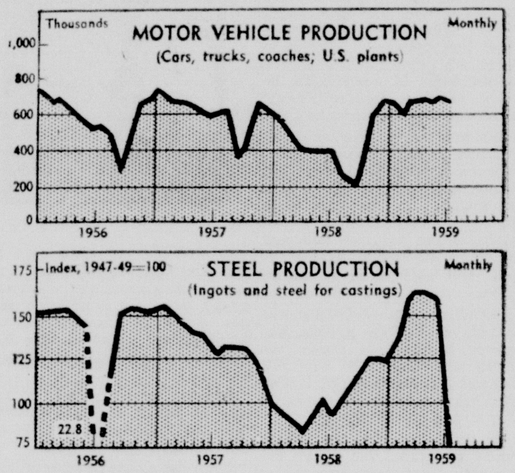
Agriculture Department experts have no solution.

The parity basis for farm price support or as a farm welfare standard is outmoded, according to two University of Illinois agricultural economics. They pointed out that during the past six years parity has played only a small role in price support programs. And to the extent that it has guided policy, it has not provided a meaningful standard.



MORE BIG MACHINERY, MORE SURPLUS TO STORE: That's how experts see farm picture.

FLYING FISHERMAN—That's the title of this striking photograph, which won for Paul C. Clough of Baltimore, Md., one of the 19 medals awarded at the 23rd Rochester International Salon of Photography in Rochester, N.Y. Over 1,250 photographers from 35 countries around the world entered 6,651 pictures in the exhibition.



THE STEEL STORY—Production records of the steel industry and its prime customer, the auto industry, are compared in charts above. Both scored rapid comebacks from the 1957-58 recession. Precipitous drop in steel production is due to nationwide strike which began in July. So far, motor vehicle production has not been affected by the strike. Charts are based on data from the U.S. Department of Commerce.

The future of Jacksonville and of every other city throughout the nation, will be in the hands of the boys and girls who are now in school.

World changes come about so rapidly that our young people must learn more than their parents did, in order to reach relatively the same position in life.

We urge the students of the area to remain in school and learn all they can. We urge adults to assume their obligation . . . helping our youth to become the best-informed, clearest-thinking people in the world!

We extend best wishes to all the school children of Jacksonville, and to their parents and their teachers. May this be the beginning of a year of real progress!

Harvesting

By Mabel Hall Goltra

Sowing and reaping
Year in and year out;
Harvesting beauty
That puts fears to rout.

Tulips and jonquils
In brilliant array;
Youthful reminders
That makes the heart gay.

Poppies and lillies
Transfigured at night,
Lend fragrance and color
To set the world right.

Power Supplies

Most electronic gear, transmitters as well as receivers (or radios and T.V. sets too), require a power supply wherein the household 117 volts A.C. line voltage and current is converted to pure D.C. (direct current) as it is stepped-up to a higher voltage; thus serious A.C. Hum is kept out of the output of this gear.

The supply first steps up or down the 117 volts A.C. within a power transformer's core and windings; then the high voltage is rectified by some form of rectifier (tube or selenium usually), and this pulsating D.C. is smoothed out in the choke—capacitor filter system for pure D.C. output.

The secondary windings for the filaments step-down the 117 volts A.C. in the primary to the correct amount of filament voltage which will appear in the secondary winding. While some small radios may use Half-Wave rectifier circuits, almost every better piece of gear uses a more easily filtered Full-Wave type of supply.

Our little 36 watter transmitter would use a Full-Wave type power supply with a 5U4GB high-vacuum type rectifier tube with a condenser imput type filter following it. For better oscillator voltage stability one or two gaseous regulator tubes would be used (see handbook section "Voltage Stabilization").

The 6BQ6GT screen voltage would come from this regulated section too; only the final amplifier's plate voltage and current would come from the higher voltage unregulated section of the power supply.

Code Practice

Yeh, that CODE is still with us!

Mon: to really test yourself practice the first of the three groups of DIFFICULT text given in "SENDING LESSON No. 8"! This is tough! Try it at 10 W.P.M.

Tues: Copy WIAW at 15 W.P.M. and check for copy errors; then practice these letters still causing trouble.

Wed: Try Lesson No. 8—text group No. 2. Nope, it isn't easy!

Thurs: Tune in tape sending at a speed slightly faster than is easy for you. How are you doing now?

Fri: Tune to 40 meter C. W. band, and practice some over the air code—QRM and ALL Hi-Hi! This is good practice.

Sat: So you think you're getting pretty good? Then try group No. 3 of SENDING LESSON No. 8. WOW!!

Admittedly you cannot be expected to absorb permanently in your mind all the questions suggested above. Primarily you should now familiarize yourself with each now. Later, review and concentration will fix each in your mind more permanently.

The world has need of thinkers,
That fact is always plain;
But the world has need of doers,
The bran . . . behind the brain:

Machines may lighten heavy tasks,
And drudgery pass away . . .
But when all need of toil is gone,
The Nation . . . will decay!

Remember Rome . . . and how it fell;
Oh let us hope and trust
That idleness in this great Land,
Will never lead to rust.

Because we grow too hard and proud,
A common job to do . . .
And a too fat, playful nation
Could become . . . unhealthy too!

We thank God for our progress,
But still, in this great Land,
Let's hope we'll never quite wipe out
The need . . . of willing hands!

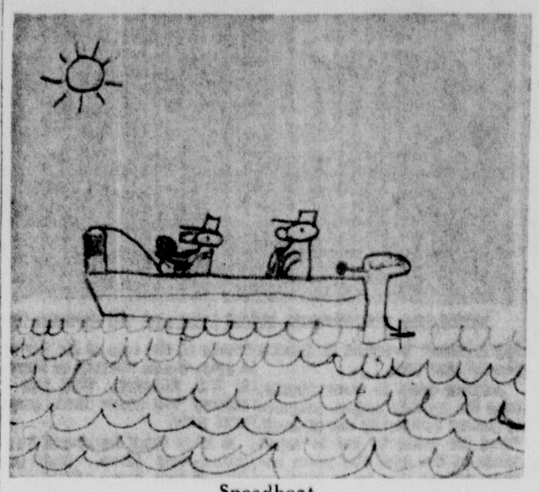
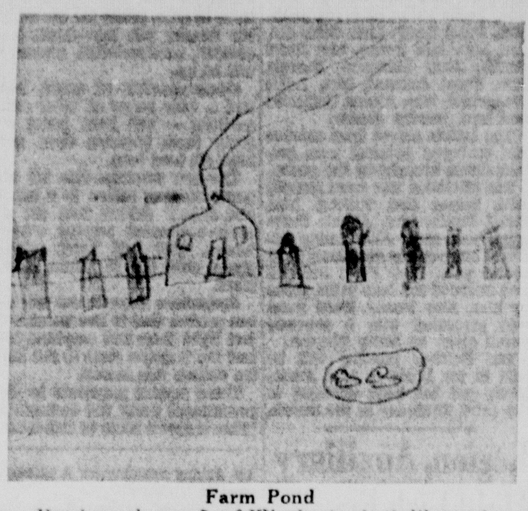
Hembrough Brothers Draw Pictures



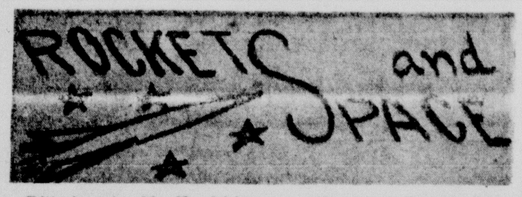
Speedboat



Farm Pond

Larry Hembrough, age 7, and his brother Danny Hembrough, age 5, of Winchester both like to draw and these pictures show they see what goes on around them.

Larry, who drew the picture on the left, writes "This is our speedboat and Dad and his friend are taking a ride." Danny's drawing on the right shows a peaceful farm scene with ducks enjoying the pond. The brothers may come in any time for their Junior Journalist pencils and Press Cards which all earn who have anything they have written or drawn printed on the Junior page.



Editor's note: Mr. Hendrickson recently visited the Air Force's Wright Air Development Center in Dayton, Ohio, and today begins, for Junior Journal-Courier readers, a series on the space research being carried on there.

Van Allen Belts
By Walter B. Hendrickson Jr.

The satellites and moon probes have discovered two belts of cosmic radiation trapped in the earth's magnetic field. These belts are named after Dr. James Van Allen who designed the package of radiation detecting instruments which found them.

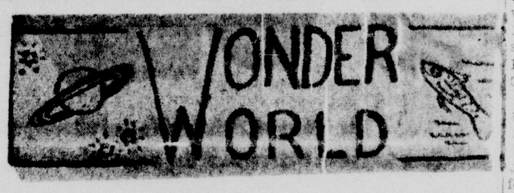
All space ships must pass through these belts on their way to outer space; and most satellites would spend at least part of their orbiting time in these belts. Since radiation in the belts is quite high enough to be dangerous to human life, Air Force scientists are worried about the safety of the crews of manned space vehicles.

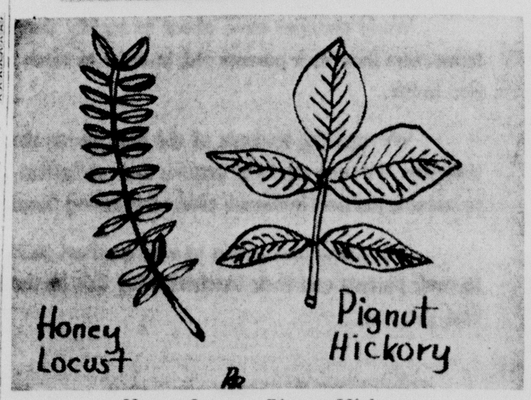
So far no man has ever gone as high as the lower of the Van Allen belts. The highest manned flight to date is Lt. Col. David Simmons' 32-hour balloon blight at 102,000 feet. Even in the long period he was at this altitude Col. Simmons reported no noticeable radiation effects.

But space ship and satellite crews will unless they are properly protected. To tackle this problem the Wright Air Development Center (WADC) at Dayton, Ohio, has established an office manned by trained atomic radiation scientists.

This office is now compiling a list of radiations, after which various means of protection against these radiations will be studied. The WADC radiation scientists are interested in all types and intensities of radiation in outer space and their effects on man, food, oxygen, etc; as well as developing radiation proof clothing and space vehicles.

Next time we'll tell you about the WADC Radiation studies.





Honey Locust, Pignut Hickory
By Rip Barnsdall

Sometimes the trunk of the honey locust is encircled by rather long, branching, thorns. The bark on young trees is smooth.

The seed pods are a reddish-brown in color. They grow about a foot long. Honey locust is often used for fence posts.

Pignut hickory has a pear-shaped fruit. This hickory, along with other kinds of hickory, was heavily used years ago in the automobile industry. Wooden wheel spokes were made from hickory

Central Christian Church History

By Jerry Lawless

First Pipe Organ

Russell F. Thrapp's pastorate, the longest one in the church's history, was marked by the selling of the building on East State Street and the building of the present house of worship at the corner of West College Avenue and South Church street.

This building was dedicated by F. Rains in 1906, and it is adequate for a congregation of 1,400 members. The first pipe organ was installed in the East State Church in 1897. It was a two manual organ built by Cole and Woodberry of Boston, Massachusetts, and erected at a cost of $2,300.

When the house of worship was erected on College Avenue and Church Street, this organ was rebuilt and placed in the new building. Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Fay provided the necessary funds to rebuild and install the organ.

On April 22, 1922, the church signed a contract for a new organ with the Austin Pipe Organ Co. of Conn. The contract price was $11,276. This organ, the one presently used, is a three manual one.

Mission Work

The Central Christian Church has a missionary society and at the present time supports the work of Dr. Clifford E. Weare in the Belgian Congo, Africa. For several years it supported Rev. Herbert P. Shaw at Wu Hu, China.

The present parsonage, located at 508 West College Avenue was built in 1915. Up until this time there was no parsonage although the church had owned this lot for a number of years.

Since 1926, the "Pastoral Helper" has been published. It covers the news in brief of the local Christian church as well as articles and pictures about Christian churches in other parts of the country and Missionary work in other lands.

Scout Troops

The church also supports a boy scout troop and a girl scout troop which are very active.

Years ago, at the time of the church's centennial, plans were made for the celebration of its 150th anniversary. As the years have gone by, ministers that have served the church have written inspiring messages and have sealed them up in envelopes. These messages are to be read on this occasion in 1982.

MILLION DOLLARS

If I had a million dollars I would buy all my family anything they wanted. I would buy my dad a new car.

I would buy my mother a new automatic washer and dryer. I would buy my sister a hi-fi set.

I would buy myself a swimming pool. I wonder if money would make us any happier?

The Girl Who Learned

Once there was a girl who loved school. She loved it so much that she wished that school was on Saturday, but sometimes she was glad that school was not on Saturday.

One day when she was on her way to school she saw someone that she had never seen before. She wondered who it was.

Then she remembered what Billy had said. "There's a new girl in our room."

When Sarah got to school she saw that girl there. Sarah went over to her and asked her what her name was.

She said, "My name is Sarah. What is your name?"

"Mine is Sarah, too." Then she showed the new girl around. Then when they came back, the other children were spelling.

The girl didn't know how to spell. She was scared and she started to cry.

The teacher saw her and said, "What is the matter?" The girl didn't say a word, then the teacher said, "Come here, Sarah."

Sarah went up to the teacher's desk. The teacher asked, "What is the matter?"

"I don't know how to spell." Then the teacher showed her how to spell and when she knew how, she was the happiest girl in the second grade.

The Little Prince

The huge purple mountains
With their heads held up high,
Look down in the valley
Where the doe and fawn lie.

The little fawn is snuggled
Against it's loving mother,
For the little fawn knows
He'll never have another.

When the little fawn grows up
Proud, Majestic, and Tall,
All the animals will look up to him
When they hear his call.

Brave Little Rebel

Chapter 24: Wise Decision

"Yes, Simon," added John. "You must remember we were nearing the end of our journey, and were short on ammunition. Then too, we already had several wounded who needed immediate care. I'll admit we were taking a chance, but it was a gamble for lives and time."

"And Simon, dear," continued Aunt Vira, "John was right. The goods and horses were what they wanted. They took everything they could lay their hands on."

"I know," nodded Simon, "When we came out from under that ledge down by the creek where we had been hiding, everything was gone. There was no sign of a fight, other than the two burned wagons."

"Yes, Son," added Noah Culp "And they would have taken them if they had had the time to waste. They wanted to destroy all evidence of a fight to keep the soldiers off their trail as long as possible."

"Yes, Sir," added John Beley to Colonel Cain, "That chief, Crooked Foot, was a clever warrior. When we had finally surrendered, he lined all the men and boys up against the wagons, and ordered that they begin to reload as fast as they could.

"He was real fussy about it too. He didn't want a nail or rifle ball missed, and even went over the ground himself, when the wagons were loaded. He even ordered a couple of warriors to scuff out the footprints after the wagons had rolled away."

"Whew!" breathed Simon. "It's a good thing Emmy Lou and I stayed hidden until dawn then! Those warriors would have spotted us for sure."

Refuses To Be Prisoner

"There was only one who refused to be taken prisoner," John Boley laughed. "Lone Star. Guess he just plain didn't think much of being an Indian's horse."

"Did he break loose from them?" asked Simon.

"Yes," John Boley went on. "They tied him to the back of one of the wagons, Crooked Foot had already spotted him and claimed him for his own. But Lone Star had other ideas. He jerked and pulled on the reins until he finally broke loose. Then you should have seen him streak across the prairie away from the Indians.

"Crooked Foot saw him first and sent two of his braves after him, but Lone Star has always liked to stretch out his legs and this time he really had his chance. Those little Indian ponies didn't have a chance of catching up with him.

"Finally, the braves returned, choosing to bear the chief's wrath, than be caught by the soldiers, whom they were sure would soon be after them," John continued.

Anyone Wounded?

"Aunt Vira," interrupted Emmy Lou. "Was anyone badly wounded?"

"Yes, Dear," she replied, "I'm afraid so. They are over in the hospital and the company doctor is caring for them. If it hadn't been for your Daddy here, I don't know what — " her voice trailed off.

"What do you mean?" asked Simon, interested.

"Well, you see Son," his son continued, "When Carson Young didn't return along with the wagon train the next morning, Col. Cain smelled trouble and sent out two companies of men to search for us."

"I knew these renegades had been stirring up a good deal of trouble, and suspected you might have met up with them," Col. Cain told him. "So I sent one company south east to search for you, while I headed another, which traveled along the creek. It was there I found Emmy Lou and Lone Star."

What Do You Think?

A BAD LISTENER

Thinks only part of the time of what the speaker is saying. Just lets sound waves into his ears. Attention is easily drawn away from speaker by some other source.

Seldom gives speaker or subject a chance. Declares subject dry after a few minutes.

Mentally starts to plan a rebuttal (formulates a question to embarrass speaker; turns to thoughts to support his own feelings).

A GOOD LISTENER

Applies spare time to thinking. Asks "Are the facts accurate?"

Directs his attention entirely to the speaker.

Trains himself to be a better listener.

Uses his thought speed (we think faster than we can speak) by listening between the lines, by noticing changing tones and volumes of the speaker's voice, and by noticing facial expressions and gestures of the speaker.

Tries to find something interesting in what is being said. Asks: "What is he saying that I need to know?" "Is that really a practical idea?" "Is he reporting anything new?"

Learns to keep listening. Tries not to get too excited about speaker's point until he has heard it through and understands it.

Instinctively fights distractions.

Are you a good listener?

OUR FIFTIETH STATE

We have a new state—Hawaii. The flag (Old Glory) will have fifty stars.

Congress has passed a bill proclaiming Hawaii the fiftieth state.

The bill has been signed by the president, but before this can be come effective, Hawaii must hold an election to determine whether or not they wish to become a state.

We think they will vote to become our fiftieth state.

ADVERTISE — IT PAYS

CONCERT TICKETS ON SALE

The public can now purchase tickets to the Jacksonville-MacMurray concert series, Mrs. Frank Norbury announced Saturday.

Now in its third week, the annual campaign had been open only to last year's members, two of whom are shown above purchasing their tickets for four concerts in 1959-60. They are, left to right: Mrs. Richard Yates Rowe, 120 Sandusky; Mrs. Friedrich Engelbach, 1400 Mound; and Mrs. Norbury. Scene is the Hotel Dunlap lobby, where association headquarters will remain through next week—(telephone CH 5-6809).

But Mrs. Norbury, assiciation president, emphasized that the campaign definitely will close next Friday, Sept. 18, at 5 p.m. After that date, no more tickets will be sold for the remainder of the season. All tickets—(also called memberships) — include all four concerts and list for $6.00 for adults and $5.00 for students through Grade 12.

There is a possibility that seating capacity will be filled before next Friday, it was stated. In that eventuality, the campaign will end abruptly.

"If we have enough money resulting from ticket sales," Mrs. Norbury said, "we can have a fifth concert. She pointed out, however, that four fine concerts have already been scheduled to make a season that compares with last year's outstanding fare.

Roger Wagner Chorale Here

The Roger Wagner Chorale, now on tour in South America, will be one of this year's highlights. Hailed as one of the outstanding singing groups in the world, the chorale will appear here in Annie Merner Chapel March 1, 1960.

A return engagement of the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra, which appeared at ISD last Feb. 10, has also been scheduled. Conducted by Eric Remoortel, the group is the second oldest symphony orchestra in the U. S., and marks one of the few times in Jacksonville history that a full symphony has appeared here.

Beginning the concert season Nov. 23 will be the enchanting Irmgard Seefried. Star of the Viennese opera, she ranked as one of the world's leading sopranoes.

Sandwiched in between the above two programs will be Joerg Demus, acclaimed by many to be the finest of the younger European pianists. He will play the piano Jan. 5 in Annie Merner Chapel.

WOODSON LADIES AID NAMES NEW MYSTERY PALS

Nine members answered roll call with the biggest job accomplished this summer. Mystery pal names were drawn. Mrs. Russell Osborne was in charge of the program. Mrs. Grace Brandon won the door prize.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Frank McCurley and Mrs. Russell Osborne. The next meeting will be held Oct. 7 at 2 p.m.

F. J. Andrews Lumber Company Presents
NEW HOME SERIES
NO. 11

Today, we are pleased to present another home in Westgate Addition; the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Giles S. Farmer, son Stephen, and twin sons David and Donald, located at No. 528 Westgate. It would be difficult to find a more personalized home than this one since the greater part of the construction work was accomplished by Mr. Farmer.

Designed to take advantage of a sloping lot, the exterior lines adapt themselves well to the setting. The garage placed on the lower level has dual windows above. To add interest to the exterior, the windows are underscored by a colorful flower box. Gray weatherboarding accented by White shutters gives the exterior a trim and inviting appearance.

As you enter the smart shutter-flanked door, a lovely planter gives definition to the entry foyer, there is a guest closet here, too, for added convenience. The floor covering is Black Vinyl. Triple awning windows overlooking the front lawn grace the living room, additional light is provided by another window in the dining alcove at the end of the living room. Serenity is the distinctive feature of the living and dining areas, created by decorating them as one unit, using plastered walls of Dawn Gray and wall-to-wall carpeting of a harmonizing shade of Gray Tweed. Plenty of wall space eliminates decorating problems.

A linen closet in the hall adjacent to the living room offers convenient storage for the bedroom area. This hall also gives access to the bathroom as well as the bedrooms. The master bedroom, tastefully decorated in a Taupe shade, is at the front of the house and features two window exposures. A double closet with sliding doors affords plenty of storage space. The family bathroom has walls of Frosty Pink accented by a frieze of Black Tile, For contrast, modern Green fixtures and a Gray Vinyl floor are used. An open shelf towel cabinet is incorporated. An illuminated miniature planter surmounting the mirrored medicine chest is an unique feature adding distinction to the decor. The other bedrooms are attractively decorated in soft tones, Mist Green is used for the color scheme of one, the other uses Bluebell. Continuity of interior space is emphasized by the use of Oak floors for the bedrooms and the hall.

The kitchen completes the floor plan, compact and comfort-planned, with direct access to the dining area, it has been cleverly designed using corner windows above a corner sink. The sink with its broad adjoining work surfaces is the center of the work triangle. A wall oven and surface range with a Copper hood are also incorporated. The cabinets finished in a Mustard shade are complemented by Yellow Walls, Formica countertops of a Linen pattern, and a Sandbeige Vinyl Tile floor flecked with Black. The kitchen also includes a pleasant area for informal meals, as well as a door opening to the rear vestibule two steps down from the kitchen. One of the nice features of this home is the outdoor terrace opening from the vestibule, which provides extra space for entertaining during pleasant weather. The finished basement is reached by a flight of wide stairs from the vestibule. It accomodates the utilities, a laundry room, space for a recreation or play room, as well as entrance to the garage.

This home designed for comfortable family living provides an atmosphere of charm with a design of lasting appeal.

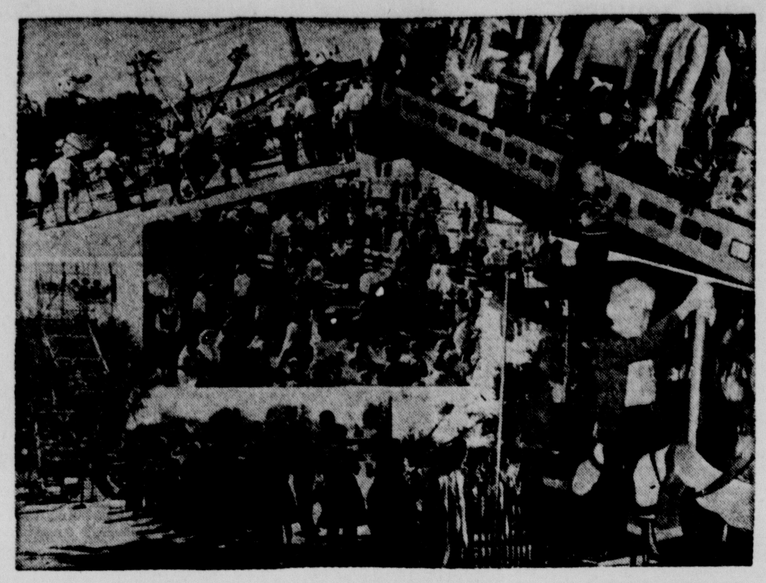
Shrine Picnic Set For Next Sunday



Members of the Rasna Shrine Club of this city and their families are slated to join the more than 5,000 Ansar Shriners and Shrine candidates in Central Illinois next Sunday afternoon and evening, Sept. 20, to partake in the fun and fellowship of the 1959 Ansar "Family Picnic" at the Illinois State Fairgrounds in Springfield, it was announced here by Robert A. Fay, Shrine Club president.

The picnic, revived this year by Ansar Temple's Potentate Cecil L. (Doc) Morris, is scheduled to open with a 1 o'clock concert by Ansar's big brass band, under the direction of James W. Humphrey. Following this, from 2 to 4, R. Garrett Phillips of Springfield will emcee the mammoth all-star revue in Radio Hall which, in addition to a number of feature acts, will include magic tomfoolery by the Great Ortheldo, the mellow voices of Ansar Temple's Chanters and the hilarious antics of the Ansar Clown Band.

The committee headed by William R. Schnirring and Joseph B. Dudley has provided a glittering galaxy of carnival fun. In addition to two ferris wheels and two merry-go-rounds, the usual long lines will form at the Scrambler, the Round-up, the Tub-of-Fun, Kiddie trains, auto rides and jet rides, with possibly the biggest attraction for the chilren being the two pony rides.

The kids will have a difficult time tearing themselves away to raid the picnic baskets brought by their parents, supplemented by cold drinks, ice cream, popcorn and cotton candy dished out by the picnic committee.

Ample parking, near all activities, has been provided, as well as numerous picnic tables and a handy supervised checkroom for picnic baskets.

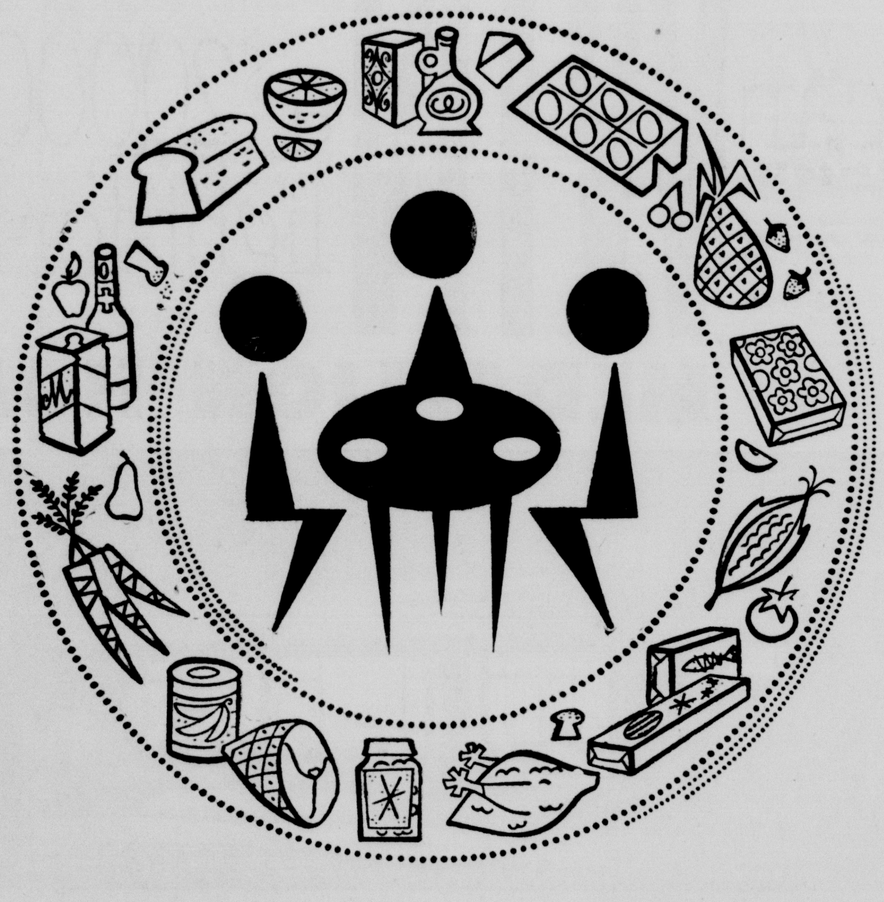
An Announcement of Interest to Everyone



BETTER MEALS BUILD BETTER FAMILIES

BEGINNING SEPTEMBER 14, THIS NEWSPAPER—and newspapers all over the country—will begin a concerted two-week drive to focus attention on one of the basic necessities of your life—food.

Food manufacturers, distributors and local retailers will be cooperating in this nationwide movement—identified by the symbol shown on this page—"Better Meals Build Better Families."

The desire of your daily newspaper and people in the food business is to emphasize the importance of the family meal as the traditional gathering place for the family. The family meal rather than meals on the run is not only more nourishing but it makes for a better, more cohesive family relationship. A closer family is a better family.

Your daily newspaper is spearheading this drive because the newspaper is the number one means of food communication. Food is news—and the newspaper delivers this news daily through its food pages and through the advertisements of retailers and manufacturers.

You will be reading all about the "Better Meals Build Better Families" campaign in the days to come. Look for announcements in the pages of your "Total Selling" medium—the daily newspaper.

ATTENTION

GAS HEATING CUSTOMERS

We want to remind you that now is the best time to make arrangements for filling your tanks with the oil or propane you will use next winter when the outside temperature drops to 26 degrees or less.

If you wait until winter weather arrives, you may find these fuels in short supply — just when you need them the most.

Recent publicity regarding our Company's attempt to obtain additional natural gas for this area may have prompted some of our dual-fuel customers to postpone purchasing their standby fuel.

Due to circumstances which we cannot control, and because of events which have since occurred, we have no indication that any additional natural gas will be available before the beginning of the 1959-1960 heating season. If and when any additional gas becomes available for heating, eligible applicants will be notified.

All dual-fuel installations will be inspected to see that controls are operating properly and heating equipment switches to standby fuel at 26 degrees Fahrenheit. If our rules and regulations covering this class of service have not been complied with, natural gas service will be completely discontinued, including gas service for cooking and water heating.

We are sorry that enough natural gas is not now available so that every customer wanting to use this fuel may do so. It is necessary that we protect the gas supply of all authorized heating customers. That is why we must enforce the rules and regulations applying to natural gas heating service.

Part time use of natural gas is available to any customer who installs equipment which will automatically switch to and use a substitute fuel whenever the outside temperature drops below 26 degrees Fahrenheit. For more information about dual-fuel heating, contact

It's No Accident That Nikita Sees U.S. Agricultural Might

By ARTHUR EDSON

WASHINGTON (AP)—The first sightseeing by that renowned tourist, Nikita Khrushchev, may be a tip on what he really came to see: America's nonsecret weapon.

He arrives Tuesday and will spend most of the day with President Eisenhower, eating, talking, arguing.

International politics out of the way temporarily, he will be ready to look around. And so, at 9 a.m. Wednesday, he will be off to the agricultural research center at Beltsville, Md., 15 miles northeast of the White House.

Americans worry so much over their weakness, real or imaginary, they forget their strength.

But Khrushchev remembers.

It's no accident that he begins at Beltsville, or that he's stopping off for two days in Iowa, to see for himself how tall that tall corn grows.

"We aren't going to blow up the capitalist world with bombs," Khrushchev has said. "If we overtake the United States in per capita production of meat, butter and milk, we shall have hit the pillars of the capitalistic world with the most powerful torpedoes yet seen."

At Beltsville he will have a chance to see how U.S. agricultural torpedoes are developed, tested and fired in the worldwide battle against hunger.

Because of the food ads, Beltsville means turkeys to most of us. Small, compact, meaty, Beltsville turkeys got their name because they were developed at the center.

Important as this may be, turkeys are but a minute fraction of the Beltsville story. The center has 2,300 employes on its 11,000 acres. You can get an awesome idea of their work by glancing down the job classifications: dairy technologists, geneticists, helminthologists, nematologists, olericulturists.

These add up to a scientific mecca that attracts 16,000 visitors from every state and 70 foreign countries, each year.

His first stop at Beltsville will show him how complete the studies are.

He will see a demonstration by Dr. Harry A. Borthwick on Beltsville's most recent discovery—how light controls plant development.

But the proof of the agriculture laboratory is in the fields and in the statistics.

While most of the world goes hungry, food pours from U.S. farms in such abundance that no administration yet has figured out what to do about it.

In Iowa, Khrushchev can see for himself that mighty nonsecret weapon, field after field of hybrid corn.

A farm specialist put it this way: "I'd like to see Khrushchev when he first sees those huge storage bins for surplus crops. Man, his eyes will bug out."

Decatur Girl Fractures Arm

GLASGOW — Miss Rosemarie Ritchie, 6-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Ritchie of Decatur, suffered a fractured arm in a fall at her home there Monday. Mrs. Ritchie is the former Miss Mary Margaret Pope of Glasgow.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Arnold returned Monday to their home in Marion after a two-weeks' visit here with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Claude Nicholson. Mr. and Mrs. Donald Nicholson and family of Alton were also Monday visitors in the home of his parents, the Claude Nicholsons.

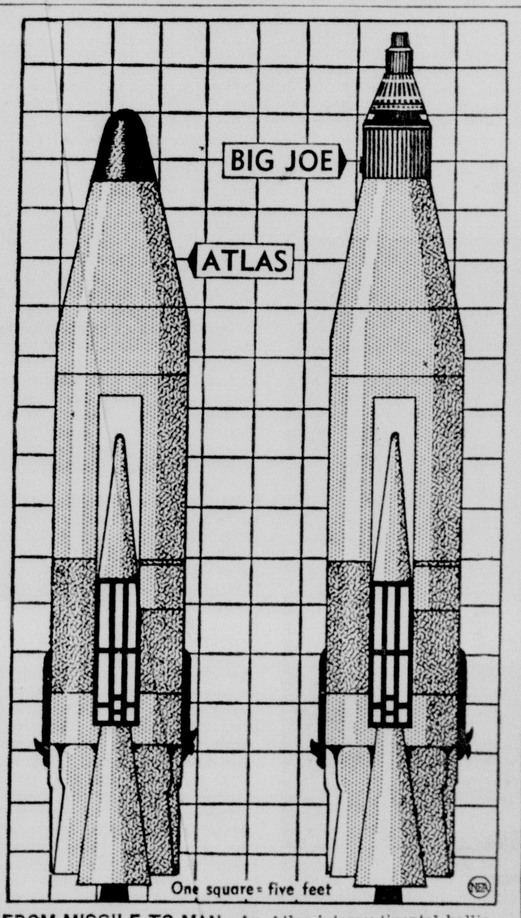
Pfc. Vernon Lee Savage, stationed at Sault St. Marie, Mich., arrived Friday for a 10-day furlough, and is visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Leo Savage and other relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Leo Savage and family, their son, Pfc. Vernon Lee Savage, home on furlough, and a daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Killebrew, Jr., of Springfield, enjoyed a family picnic and outing at Pere Marquette State Park, near Grafton Sunday.

Mrs. Floy Doyle and grandson, Langdon Adams, who spend the summer months in the tenant house on the Cunningham Ranch, south of Glasgow, returned to their home in East St. Louis Saturday.

Mrs. Max Smith, who has been visiting in the home of Mrs. Bess Cumby in Peoria, and her son, Kay, employed at the Caterpillar plant there, arrived home Saturday for the Labor Day week end. Kay returned to Peoria Monday.

One-fourth of all the natural gas consumed in the United States is used in Texas.



FROM MISSILE TO MAN—An Atlas intercontinental ballistic missile and an Atlas topped by a Big Joe capsule are compared above. Only shortly after the bomb-carrying ICBM was declared ready for troops, another versatile Atlas on a peaceful mission hurled a Big Joe capsule out to sea as a prelude to the first manned rocket launching. The nine-foot-long Big Joe, closely similar to the Project Mercury capsule that will carry a man into orbit, successfully re-entered the atmosphere and was recovered intact.

Beverly Jean Stout And Macomb Man Wed, Newlyweds Will Make Home In Minneapolis

The First Assembly of God church was the scene of an impressive late summer wedding the evening of Saturday, September fifth, when Miss Beverly Jean Stout of Jacksonville became the bride of David Allen Nelson of Macomb, Illinois.

The double ring ceremony, performed by the pastor, Reverend W. A. Gardner, was solemnized before an altar decorated with baskets of white glads and mixed flowers, ferns and palms and tapers in candelabra. Satin bows marked the family pews. The Reverend F. H. Toliver, Rochester, assisted the Reverend Gardner.

Beverly is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Stout, 868 North Prairie street and the bridegroom is the son of the Reverend and Mrs. John W. Nelson of Macomb.

Miss Phyllis Farmer presided at the organ for the prelude and accompanied the soloist, William Vollrath of Quincy, for the numbers, "Because," and "Til The End of Time." Miss Farmer used the traditional processional and recessional.

Wears Lace and Net Gown

The lovely bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a wedding gown of white lace over crisp silk taffeta fashioned with snug bodice fitting to a front V, long tapering sleeves and scallop finished scoop cut neckline.

Lace spears pierced the bouffant net ruffled skirt of the gown worn over wide hoops. A halo crown of seed pearls with sequins secured her veil of bridal illusion. She carried a purple orchid with stephanotis atop her white Bible and her only ornament was a strand of pearls, a gift from her bridegroom.

Four Attendants

Miss Frances Gunn was Beverly's maid of honor; Miss Allene Coultas and Miss Carole Jean Gardner bridesmaids and Judy Nelson, sister of the bridegroom, junior maid.

The attendants were gowned in pastels identically styled crystalette on taffeta. Cummerbunds topped the very full skirts and picture hats and mitts matched the shades of their respective costumes.

Miss Gunn was in pink; Miss Coultas blue, Miss Gardner yellow and Judy Nelson were an aqua shade. Each carried a Colonial bouquet of carnation mums tinted to correspond with the color of her costume. Pearls, the bride's gift, constituted their only jewel accessory.

Miss Lois Gardner and Miss Miriam Nelson, sister of the bridegroom, lighted tapers at the altar during the nuptial prelude. They wore orchid and mint green crystalette frocks, styled similar to the gowns worn by the attendants. Their flowers were wrist corsages to match their respective dresses.

Judy Coultas served the wedding party as flower girl. She wore yellow crystalette and carried a basket of rose petals. Yellow feathered carnations formed a tiara headdress.

Lynn Ray Knox was ring bearer and wore a white jacket over dark trousers. He carried the rings on a heart shaped satin pillow decorated with lily of the valley.

Phillip Nelson, Macomb, served his brother as best man. Ushers were Daniel Farmer and Robert Shore and Philip Wilder was junior usher.

Reception At Hotel

A reception in the banquet room at Hotel Dunlap followed the church ceremony. The linen covered serving table was centered with a four tiered bride's cake, decorated in pink with white, and topped with a miniature bride and groom. Pink and white mints and Hawaiian punch carried out the color combination.

The attendants to the bride served wedding cake and punch to guests and Mrs. Wanda Thompson, Miss Phyllis Farmer and Miss Carolyn Hacker were in charge of the gifts. Miss Lois Gardner and Miss Miriam Nelson registered the guests.

The bride graduated from Jacksonville High School in 1955 and since that time has been educational secretary in Jacksonville public school system. The bridegroom, a graduate in 1954 from Western High School at Macomb, attended Illinois Western University, until entering the Air Force.

Mr. and Mrs. Nelson will make their home at Minneapolis where the groom will attend North Central Bible College in preparation for the ministry.

When the couple left the bride was wearing as her going away outfit pastel blue lace with white accessories and the orchid from her wedding bouquet.

Guests attended the ceremony and reception from Ypsilanti and Plymouth, Michigan; Houston, Texas, St. Louis, Mo, and Mt. Sterling, Quincy, Macomb, Winchester, Rochester and Elmhurst, Illinois.

Khrushchev's Low Opinion Of Americans Not Likely To Be Changed By His Visit

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
Associated Press News Analyst

Nikita Sergeyevich Khrushchev, in his own words, intends to give the United States a bit of "good old Russian hell."

The prospective guest of the American public appears to have a low opinion of the United States —or at least that portion of it he calls the ruling circles.

The ruling circles include anybody who owns property, anybody who is in a directing position in labor unions, the entire military, the entire government and the entire middle class from lower to upper.

There is little chance Khrushchev's visit will do much to change his mind. It may, however, have some effect on the timetable the world Communist leader has worked out. The premier of the Soviet Union and first secretary of the Soviet Communist party may learn some surprising things.

Khrushchev has staked his niche in Soviet history upon a challenging declaration of economic war against the United States. In a broadcast just over a year ago, Khrushchev said a shooting war is not necessary for a world victory by communism.

"We have other means to fight the class enemy, my dears," he said to Americans in general. "And in this, victory for us is assured. We will raise our economy, raise labor productivity, produce more per human being, so that soon, gentlemen, you understand, the time will come, you Americans, when we shall, as the saying goes, give you good old Russian hell."

Khrushchev's plan to give us all hell involves overtaking and surpassing the United States in all phases of economic development, including the consumer side.

Next week he will have a chance to note the size of the chew he has bitten off.

Since Khrushchev got his invitation, the Soviet press has been oozing good will toward the United States, though carefully larding this with frequent attacks on those shadowy, frightening "ruling circles."

To Khrushchev, all American politicians are alike. The American worker, choosing between parties, merely chooses between exploiters.

Factory managers in the Soviet Union have no strike problem. Strikes are forbidden. The state operates labor unions. But Khrushchev professes to believe labor unions in America are all "tools of monopoly capital." If Americans strike, it is a phenomenon which could not be controlled by union bosses. To him, this indicates decay of the whole American system.

Khrushchev is enraged by suggestions that the Soviet government cares little about the consumer, aims only at industrial power and war might.

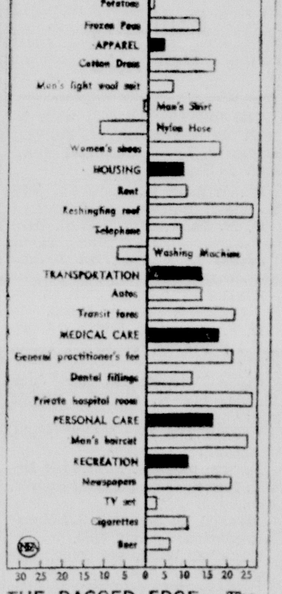
"The American politicians often shed crocodile tears about the Soviet government allegedly giving little attention to developing those branches of industry which directly meet the people's needs," shouted Khrushchev in Czechoslovakia last year. (Aware of possible envy in the U.S.S.R., he does not make such statements for home consumption.)

"So," he continued, "we decided to make a practical test of their attitude and let them show whether the American imperialists really care for the peoples of the Soviet Union, that they should consume more, or whether they care for having the economic potential undermined and making it incapable of defense, and thus have the opportunity to carry on their cold war policy and dictate conditions from a position of strength."

Khrushchev has been least violent in his treatment of President Eisenhower, among all American leaders. Yet he has accused the President of being directly responsible for a "brink of war" policy. Stung by Eisenhower's proclamation of Captive Nations Week, in sympathy for communized Eastern Europe, Khrushchev accused him of crude interference with the intention of increasing world tensions, inciting passions and provoking an arms race. The President's suggestion that there might be a clean hydrogen bomb, free from fallout, Khrushchev has scoffingly labelled "stupid."

But Khrushchev's pet targets are American military men. He has suggested some of them should be committed to lunatic asylums.

Khrushchev's best propagandists are now suggesting that the United States government had no choice but to invite a great peace champion to its shores, because that was the "will of the people."



THE RAGGED EDGE — The rising price trend of just about everything is shown by bars in chart above. (Black bars indicate main categories.) Although brightened by only a few items on the "down" side, the overall rate of climb in cost of living has slowed to about half that of the 1949-54 period.

"My fellow Americans:

"There are many things about our nation which excite a sense of pride... but one quality of America stands out... this is the quick response of our citizens to their neighbors in need....

"The child's accident, the trapped miners, the suffering in a tornado—these are examples of the emergencies of life. We read and hear about them and we are moved to sympathy and help. But most of the human crises which occur each day never reach the headlines....Somebody must keep an eye on them and show us the way to help....This is the purpose of the united community campaigns....

"Right now these united campaigns are getting under way in some two thousand communities across the land. They provide us with a splendid opportunity to express the traditional neighborly concern of America....

"The campaign in your area...represents the largest, the most inclusive annual appeal to which any of us will be asked to give this year. Joined in...are the familiar voluntary agencies that care for our children, give counseling to troubled families, heal the sick of mind and body....Indeed, I don't know of any one gift we can make which will mean so much to so many people....

"...I am confident that our hands and hearts will be ready to welcome the volunteer worker who will soon call on us seeking our pledge of support...."

From the President's message for the United Community Campaigns of America, September 28, 1958.

—JHS—

The first meeting of Tri-Hi-Y was held for old members on the front lawn of the High School Wednesday night. Each girl brought her own sack lunch. After the meal, Ginny Gronseth, president, brought up many new ideas for the coming year.

—JHS—

The first meeting of "Y" Council took place Wednesday after school. The meeting was held in the YMCA. Mr. Al Dinquel called the meeting together and the election of officers got under way immediately. The officers for this year are Cindy Kraushaar, president; Fred Pigott, vice president; and Suzanne Smith, secretary. The Council was then told because of the new lunch hour the "Y" was forced to close their lunch bar. Therefore the "Y" dues have been raised to $1.00 a year.

—JHS—

Friday night the annual All School Dance, sponsored by the Student Council, took place in the Gym. Activity tickets admitted the students. A refreshment stand was set up and run by the council.

Junior Varsity cheerleaders were chosen for the coming year in an all school assembly, Friday, September 11. The squad consists this year of two freshmen and four sophomores. They are Suzy Hembrough, Gerry Schillinger, Bev Trull, Barb Trull, Karen Middendorf, and Cheryl Cogswell.

—JHS—

The 1959 Jacksonville High School football team has been hard at work the past couple of weeks preparing for its first game with Eisenhower of Decatur on their field. Good luck, boys, for another successful season!

So They Say

The American people must view the exchange of visits (between Eisenhower and Khrushchev) as an experiment or a new approach in dealing with the Soviet Union. It would be tragic indeed if the lessons of Sputnik melted in the thaw of a Khrushchev smile.

A hundred times a day I ask the crowds whether they didn't really want to move on to see other exhibits. Invariably the answer is, "No, we want to talk to Americans." And who can deny such a request?

TV NEWS
by DON SHUMAKER

Television viewers will have a ringside seat at one of the most violent scenes ever televised when Eddie Albert, guest star, and program star Robert Fuller tangle in "Glory Road," one-hour episode of the "Laramie" series, on Sept. 22. The wild fracas finds the two actors wrecking a bar, destroying hundreds of glasses, smashing a piano, breaking furniture and finally crashing through a window. The participants suffered only a few black and blue marks (accidents will happen, even in television), although the fight took better than seven hours of workouts in a gym before it finally went before the cameras. After cutting and editing, viewers will find the action summed up in roughly one minute of actual battle on their screens.

In "Glory Road" Hoagy Carmichael introduces his first of several songs created for the "Laramie" series. The number is called "Marry Me in Laramie." As one of the regular stars of the series is was inevitable that Carmichael's role of Jonesy, a sage ranch-hand, should eventually lead him to a piano. A careful check of history showed that there were few pianos in the Wyoming territory of the 1870's, but, fortunately for Hoagy and the viewers, this problem was solved. Depend on Shumaker TV & Appliance for the solution of your TV electronic problems. We have the facilities to provide you with prompt, dependable service, and you'll find our repair fees reasonable. With The Girl Scouts

Saturday, Sept. 19, from 10:00 to 11:30 a.m. at the YMCA Youth Center is going to be a big day in Girl Scouting for the Brownies and Intermediate Scouts of Morgan and Scott counties. This is the time for the big rally when the girls from all the troops in these two counties will have a chance to meet each other and get better acquainted with the Girl Scout program.

Carol Abbott, Virginia Gronseth and Gail Ward, all Senior Scouts of Troop No. 1, will tell about their experiences in international friendship, when they camped for ten days this summer in a tent city housing 10,000 Senior Scouts on ranch land in the shadow of Pike's Peak in Colorado. They will show many of their swap items which they obtained by trading with other girls from all over the world.

Also on the program at the rally will be four entertaining puppet shows put on by the Intermediate Scouts of Troop No. 57 in Winchester. Mrs. Albert Herring is the leader of this troop.

It was announced previously that Brownies would have their rally in the morning and Intermediates in the afternoon but due to a conflict of space at the Youth Center, the time has been combined and both groups will meet in the morning. Each girl is asked to bring 10c for refreshments.

Come and have fun with other Girl Scouts!

Cass County Rally

Girl Scouts and Brownie Scouts of Cass county will have their rally on Oct. 24, when the troops in Chandlerville will be host to the troops in Ashland and Virginia. Mrs. Jack Garner is chairman of arrangements.

Greene county rally plans will be announced later.

Brownie Troop No. 61 of Chandlerville had a float in the Cass County 4-H Fair parade two weeks ago. The theme of the float was "Brownies of the World" and it was awarded fourth place in the commercial float division.

Brownies of this troop held their first meeting Friday, Sept. 11, after school in the school cafeteria. They brought bottles of buttons for the Red Cross to the meeting. On Tuesday, Sept. 15, eligible Brownies of this troop will take part in the traditional "fly-up" ceremony and become Intermediate Girl Scouts.

Council Meeting

Winchester Girl Scout leaders and troop committee members were hostesses last Wednesday to the members of the Illinois Prairie Girl Scout Council at the semi-annual meeting which was held at the Winchester Baptist church. Mrs. Mary Lashmett, troop organizer in Winchester, was in charge of arrangements.

Mrs. Sam Pack, vice president, presided in the absence of the president, Mrs. Ralph Sullivan. Carol Abbott of Jacksonville, a Roundup delegate, told of her experiences this summer at the Senior Roundup in Colorado and showed slides.

Girl Scouts of Troop No. 57 of Winchester presented four clever puppet shows. A social hour was also enjoyed.

Members of the Program committee of the Executive board meet Thursday morning at the Scout office to set up program plans for the coming two months. Mrs. William Gross is chairman of that committee.

Mothers' meetings scheduled for the coming week include one at Our Saviour's school for third grade mothers at 2:30 p.m. on Sept. 18 and one at the Scout office at 10:00 a.m. for 3rd, 5th and 6th grade mothers of Lafayette school on Sept. 16.

The fly-up workshop scheduled for Monday in the office will not be held until some time in October after more 5th grade troops are underway.

THE STORY: Ross Mallory, with the border patrol in California, is in temporary disfavor because his dog attacked an illegal immigrant. He is not aware yet that headed for Mexico is a tramp steamer carrying a mutant variety of the plague bacillus, which will affect his destiny. The disease already has caused the death of the father of a girl veterinarian with the border service.

Public Health wasn't doing any more business than the rest of the border interchange. The dispensary was empty except for the male nurse who was drinking a cola and reading an old magazine. He looked up, yawning, as Mallory came in. "What's your problem?"

"Need a booster," Mallory replied shortly.

"Okay, Mallory, isn't it?" The nurse put down his magazine and went to the filing cabinet. He thumbed through the cards until he found the proper one and studied it. "Uh-huh. Due for a T'n'T. Smallpox coming up in about six months, too. Want to get that out of the way now?"

"No. Just give me what I've got coming." Mallory said, removing his shirt. "Speed it up, won't you?"

"What's your rush? The germs aren't going nowhere." He dabbed the upper part of Mallory's arm with alcohol.

Mallory winced as the hypodermic punctured his flesh.

As he did so, Mallory discovered that they were not alone in the dispensary. A young women had come out of the inner office and was filling a paper cup at the water cooler. He recognized her as the Howard girl from AI & QB; the border community was too closely knit not to know everyone who worked there, at least by sight. She was watching him as she drank and Mallory thought that her gaze held amusement.

"Haven't you ever seen anybody get a shot before?"

She colored slightly with anger but her voice was cool and sarcastic. "I thought from the way you were gritting your teeth that it must be an amputation, at least." She turned and went back down the short hallway before Mallory could think of a reply.

"All done," announced the nurse. Mallory hadn't even felt the second inoculation. "Say, what's with you two, anyway? I've heard of love at first sight but this is ridiculous."

"Who asked you? Just make sure those shots go on my record, that's all."

"Okay, so it's none of my business." The nurse commenced to rinse the syringes at the sink. "I wish somebody would tell me what's going on around here, though. First, she comes busting in here looking like the world is due to fold any minute. Then detected how tightly he gripped the table. He snapped, "Well, Slatore doesn't take his lunch hour, cancels all his appointments and they've been holed up in his office ever since. Now you show up with a chip on your shoulder and start shouting back and forth with her. Some days I think the whole world's screwy."

He broke off as the outer door to the dispensary opened and a heavy set man stomped in. Like Mallory, he wore the uniform of the Border Patrol but with insignia denoting his higher rank, that of district chief. This was Barry Kelso, Mallory's superior, whom he had just left less than a half-hour before. Kelso was only medium height but built like a barrel, with short powerful arms and legs like tree trunks. His face was granite hard and his bristly hair sprouted above it.

"Nice of you to check on me."

Kelso went on into Slatore's office. Before the door closed behind him, Mallory had an instant's glimpse of Cloris Howard, sitting in a chair and fiddling with her glasses.

Colonel Fidel Aguilar looked out across the room at all the faces turned in his direction, expectant and curious. He drew a deep breath.

He had intended to begin by saying something about the honor of being invited to address the city's civic and business leaders but the carefully-practiced phrases had fled. Instead, he blurted, "I didn't expect such fine things would be said about me until I was dead."

To his surprise, they laughed. Not derisively, but with appreciation.

The story he told was the Simp Reese case, the most publicized outbreak of violence the border had known in several years.

Simp Reese had been an American, 20 years old, whose homicidal tendencies had caused the state of California to confine him to a mental institution. Somehow he had managed to escape and to elude the dragnet that was set for him, making his way south until he at last reached the Mexican border. Unfortunately, he had taken refuge in an elementary school near Tecate, holding the terrified youngsters as hostages. The police surrounded the building but hesitated to attack, fearing what might happen to the children in a gun battle. The stalemate was two hours old when Aguilar arrived on the scene.

"There were several choices open to us," Aguilar said now, reliving the tense moments. "We could allow Reese to escape. But this was unthinkable. Or we could mount an attack upon the schoolhouse which might well result in a number of innocent deaths. Equally unthinkable. So there remained only one choice. I decided to go in after him."

Here is a hand played in an important match in the early days of contract. The six heart contract was decidedly unsound and South took the best percentage play for it.

He ruffed the second spade, went over to dummy with a club, led a heart and finessed the queen. West made his singleton king and led another spade. South ruffed that and played the ace of trumps whereupon East made his jack and the hand went down two.

If North and South had stopped at five South would actually have made the slam. He would have been in a position to use one of the elementary safety plays. After ruffing the second spade he would have immediately played the ace of trumps. This would have dropped West's king whereupon he would have gone over to dummy and finessed successfully against East's jack.

The point to this safety play is that South would avoid the loss of more than one trump trick against any combination except the guarded king-jack in the West hand and there would be no way to handle that holding at all.
